

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

She Induced Dreyfus Not to Kill Himself.

PRISONER GAVE WAY TO TEARS.

Much Touched When Forzinetti Described Sad Scenes at Prison—Generals May Intend to Change Their Tactics. Alleged Confession Denied by Dreyfus.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Dreyfus gave way to his feelings and found relief in tears, at his trial by courtmartial, as Major Forzinetti told the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, as an angel, pointing out the road of duty. The prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and teardrops trickled down his cheeks. He rose and after a forced effort to remain calm, as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to Colonel Du Paty de Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forzinetti with a look of thanks for his consolation so needed. Dreyfus then uttered these words of heartfelt gratitude to his wife for the courage with which she inspired him:

"It is due to her," he cried, "that I am alive today."

During the proceedings Lieutenant Colonel Brongniart asked Colonel Guerin if he thought M. Weil, who is a friend of Esterhazy, also knew Dreyfus. The latter at once rose and declared he had never before heard of Weil. The point of this question was that Esterhazy has written to Colonel Jouaust, as announced, and has undoubtedly mentioned Weil as a gobetween for Dreyfus. If relations can be proved between Dreyfus and Weil, and Esterhazy admits obtaining treasonable information from Weil, then he could assume Dreyfus was a traitor.

The generals, if sufficient evidence of a Dreyfus-Weil-Esterhazy connection can be produced, can abandon the contention that Dreyfus wrote the bordereau and admit Esterhazy is the author of it. This is possibly the change of tactics on the part of the generals hinted at recently.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Lebrun-Renault testified, at the Dreyfus courtmartial, that he and his squadron were detailed to take Dreyfus to the military school Jan. 5, 1895, where the degradation was to occur.

He began to protest his innocence and to say that, with considerable means at his disposal and a bright future in store for him, he could have no motive in being guilty of treason. He said:

"I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged. The minister knows it well. He told Du Paty de Clam to tell me so, some days ago, in my cell. He knows that if I communicated documents to Germany they were of no importance, and it was to obtain more serious and more important documents."

Captain D'Attel was present. Artillerymen and a corporal took Dreyfus to the place of degradation.

Referring to articles in the newspapers in regard to the confession, Captain Lebrun-Renault said:

"General Mercier said to me: 'Go to the Elysee and repeat to the president of the republic what you have told me.'"

"While I was in the anteroom I heard some one remark about me in very discourteous terms. M. Dupuy ushered me before the president, who said: 'You have had relations with journalists and have been indiscreet. Certain articles have appeared in the newspapers.'"

"I replied that perhaps journalists were among the persons I had seen, but I said I had not spoken directly to journalists. No mention was made of the confession, and I left after having received a lecture from the president. M. Dupuy took me into another room and drew up a semi-official note to the effect that I had no relations with the press."

A judge—Did the president know why you came to the Elysee?

Captain Lebrun-Renault—The president was notified that I was coming. For my part, I was somewhat intimidated, which is easily explained. I heard myself described as a "traitor," "canaille" and "cur." That was not encouraging.

M. Demange asked how the witness could detect a confession in the words "I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged."

The witness refused to say whether or not he regarded the words of Dreyfus as a confession.

M. Labori—Why did the witness keep the leaf of his pocketbook with the note of the confessions for years? The witness seems to say it was mere chance, I am surprised that the witness destroyed it just the day after it was mentioned in the chamber of deputies.

To this, Captain Lebrun-Renault replied that at that time he considered that the document he possessed was authenticated by the copy made of it by M. Cavaignac the day before it was destroyed.

M. Labori—The court will draw its own conclusions.

M. Labori said he was much surprised that the witness had not referred to the abuse at the Elysee, before the court of cassation

Asked if he had anything to say, Dreyfus declared that when he was at the military school, on the day of his degradation, Colonel Lebrun-Renault did not leave him. As far as he could remember D'Attel was not present.

Further along, in telling of his conversation with Lebrun-Renault, he declared that he said to him:

"I am innocent, and I will say it aloud to the whole people. The minister well knows it."

"I have already explained to the court what I meant. It was the reply I had given to Colonel Du Paty de Clam when he visited me in prison, in the course of which I protested that I was innocent. I completed that declaration by a letter I wrote to the minister, redeclaring that I was innocent. Du Paty de Clam asked me whether I had not given unimportant documents in order to get more important ones in exchange for them. I replied, word for word, 'no,' that I wanted the matter cleared up, and concluded with saying, 'but before two or three years my innocence would be acknowledged.'"

"Allow me," continued Dreyfus, "to express the emotion and surprise I feel today, after five years, when I see a witness, who, after hearing such words, beginning with a protest of innocence, reported them to his chiefs without asking the most concerned person for an explanation of them. These are proceedings in the face of which all honest people can only express indignation." [Great sensation.]

Captain Anthoine said D'Attel told him that Dreyfus had made remarks the meaning of which to his mind clearly, was: First, a formal confession that he had delivered documents; second, an allegation that the documents were unimportant; third, that the prisoner's object was to obtain more important documents in exchange.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled, admitted that Captain D'Attel did not speak to the prisoner, but he added that D'Attel was in the room and certainly heard the words uttered by Dreyfus.

M. Labori—What is very certain is that Captain D'Attel made no report of the incident to his chiefs.

General Mercier—No.

Lieutenant Colonel Guerin, said Dreyfus, after the degradation addressed a group of officers, saying that in three years justice would be done him. He reported this to General Saussier.

M. Demange—Was it suggested that steps be taken to verify the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—I do not recollect.

M. Demange—So there was no attempt to interrogate Dreyfus in regard to the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—The case had passed out of the hands of the military authorities, the prisoner having been handed over to the civil authorities.

One of the judges asked the witness whether M. Weil, when attached to the army headquarters, had relations with Esterhazy, to which Colonel Guerin replied that he believed M. Weil had known Esterhazy for a long time.

The Judge—Do you think Weil knew the prisoner?

Colonel Guerin—I do not know.

Dreyfus here remarked that he never knew Weil.

Others also told of hearing of the alleged confession.

When called upon to reply Dreyfus declared he had never said his trial would be revised in three years. He gave the explanation he had previously given, and said there was no sinister motive in his mind such as had been attached to those words.

[Note—Dreyfus evidently referred to the general staff's suggestion that when he used the expression "three years" he knew that Esterhazy would then appear as a man of straw and try to take his (the prisoner's) place.]

Major Forzinetti, who was governor of the Cherche Midi prison while Dreyfus was confined there, testified that while in prison Dreyfus always seemed to have the bearing of an innocent man and always asserted his innocence. The witness added that he told General de Boisdeffre that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Continuing Major Forzinetti said he was intimate with Captain Lebrun-Renault and Captain D'Attel and neither of them ever mentioned to him the alleged confession of Dreyfus.

The witness also recalled the despair of Dreyfus after his conviction and the regrets he expressed at not having resigned. Dreyfus, the major also said, talked of committing suicide.

When Dreyfus rose to reply he admitted that after his degradation he intended to commit suicide, but he added that if he succeeded in enduring the torture inflicted it was owing to his wife, who made him understand his duty. [Commotion.]

Major Forzinetti corroborated this. He said Dreyfus' statement was quite correct.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled by Colonel Jouast, said he did not tell Major Forzinetti of Dreyfus' confession because General Risbours, his commanding officer, had told him to hold his tongue.

General de Boisdeffre also asserted that there were inaccuracies in Major Forzinetti's evidence. The general denied that the major ever declared to him that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Replying to M. Demange, Major Forzinetti said he adhered to all the evidence he had given before the court of cassation.

AN IMPERIALISM ROW.

Incipient Riot at a Lecture In Cincinnati.

MEN TRIED TO STRIKE HALSTEAD.

Anti-Imperialists Called Traitors For Wishing the American Army Routed and Captured—Men There Who Would Have Fought For Halstead.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Editor Murat Halstead lectured, by invitation, before the Economic club, in this city. The audience was miscellaneous, in addition to the members of the club, which is largely anti-imperialistic. Mr. Halstead's subject was the Philippines. After the lecture, according to the rules of the club, Mr. Halstead was plied with questions. One of the questioners with decided sympathy for Aguinaldo after his question had been answered, added the remark: "I hope Otis will be kept in and will keep on blundering till he and the whole army are driven into the sea or captured." Mr. Halstead said: "A man with those sentiments is a traitor to his country."

Several men jumped up and remarked: "Two thirds of this audience thinks that way."

Mr. Halstead replied: "Whoever thinks that way is a traitor."

Then there was a rush down the hall with raised fists toward Mr. Halstead, but a great number of men stepped in between Mr. Halstead and those who rushing at him.

There was a great noise and uproar which disclosed the fact that the audience was composed of men on both sides of that question. Mr. Halstead was quietly led out of the church by a side door and taken home. No blows were struck, but chairs and seats were upset and there were loud threats and great uproariousness.

LADIES WANT TO PARADE.

Mrs. Giddings Proposed to Take Her Command to New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Alexander Giddings of Cleveland has written to the Dewey reception executive committee as commander of the "White escort" of Cleveland, asking for a place in the line during the parade. She describes her command as consisting of "124 young ladies all dressed in pure white and carrying bright silk flags." The letter was forwarded to General Roe, who has charge of the makeup of the land parade.

General Roe said the other day that only military organizations would have a place in the line.

Help the Dewey Home Fund.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Frank A. Vanderbilt, chairman of the Dewey home fund, and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer, issued a statement to the public saying in part: "The Dewey home fund now exceeds $21,000 in the hands of the treasurer, from 27,695 contributors, with sums aggregating about $15,000 or $18,000 reported as subscribed still held by local committees and subscribers." He then asks for more subscriptions. The committee has never received any declination from Admiral Dewey, and, on the contrary, has every reason to believe that he will accept the gift.

Dewey Sailed For Gibraltar.

VILLEFRANCHE, France, Sept. 1.—Admiral Dewey, on the cruiser Olympia, left for Gibraltar. The admiral said he was in perfect health. He expects to stay at Gibraltar until Sept. 12. He expressed pleasure, previous to his departure, at his stay here and dreads his countrymen's reception. The admiral's visit here was the most interesting in history of the harbor.

TO HONOR NEGRO HEROES.

Some Doing Gallant Service In Cuba to Be Given Commissions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adjutant General Corbin said that there were less than 100 appointment of volunteer officers yet to be made, and they belonged mainly to the states of Wisconsin, California and Ohio. All the field commissions in the volunteer establishment have been distributed with the exception of one lieutenant colonelcy and ten majorities. The governors of the states which contributed colored troops to the volunteer army in the war with Spain have been requested by the secretary of war to nominate company officers for the colored volunteer regiment. Colonel William P. Duvall of the Twenty-sixth infantry most probably will have command. The other regimental officers will be secured from the regular service, and there is a general understanding that most, if not all, the company officers will be appointed from the colored regiments which rendered such gallant and efficient service in the battles of El Caney and San Juan Hill in the Santiago campaign.

PRESIDENT FIGUEROA RESIGNED.

Reported He Did So In the Interest of Jiminez.

SAN DOMINGO, Sept. 1.—President

Figueroa has resigned. The ministers will continue at the head of their various departments until a provisional government has been formed, after which the elections for president and vice president will take place.

At Cape Haitien, Haiti, it is said that Figueroa has resigned in favor of Jiminez.

SANTIAGO, Sept. 1.—It was reported Jiminez would leave here today.

ANOTHER COAL COMBINE.

Formed to Control Pittsburg District Railroad Mines—Has Agreement With River Combine.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The Pittsburg rail coal mine combination has been formed and a meeting will be held within two weeks to elect officers. The new corporation is the Pittsburg Coal company and its capital stock is $64,000,000. It owns the coal properties of 104 of the 107 individuals and firms in the business, has practically absolute control of the docks and coal loading plants on the great lakes and has a monopoly on all the outlets to the coal markets of the east, west and northwest. There is an understanding between this combine and the combine of the river coal interests of the Pittsburg district, so that neither will encroach upon the territory of the other, thus putting the Pittsburg district, with its output of 23,918,804 tons of coal last year, in the hands of two great concerns.

Of that total output last year the properties now owned by the Pittsburg Coal company produced over 17,000,000 tons, and this year it is expected that the production will exceed 20,000,000 tons. Included in the assets of the concerns taken over are 81,236 acres of coal lands and 7,126 acres of surface land situated in the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland in Pennsylvania on the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system, the lines of the Pennsylvania company and those of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Pittsburg and Western railroads, with direct connections with many dock and loading plants.

HUNTING DYNAMITERS.

Officers Active Owing to the Injuries to Passengers by the Explosion In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The persons injured by the blowing up of a street car on Wilson avenue are not in a serious condition and will recover. A large number of patrolmen have been detailed for detective duty in citizens' clothing, and with them are operating the police detective force and squads of operatives from several private detective agencies, not to mention scores of amateurs who are out for the liberal rewards that have been offered.

An examination of the spot where the explosion occurred and the testimony of an expert on explosives who heard the report a short distance away show that nitroglycerin was the agent used in wrecking the car. The street railway strikers denounce the outrage and say they would offer a reward for the arrest of the perpetrators if the state of their treasury would warrant it.

Americans Made a Sally From Cebu Rebels Stopped Preparing to Attack Imus.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—Dispatches received from Cebu announced that the American troops under Colonel Bayless, with two field pieces, sallied into the hills against a band of natives who recently a bushed four of our soldiers and who have been generally troublesome. The American force found the natives entrenched and drove them from their trenches further into the hills. There were no casualties on the American side, though there were some heat prostrations. The natives' loss was not known.

The Fourth infantry having prepared to give the insurgents a warm reception, the latter ceased their preparations for an attack on Imus.

DR. BEDLOE DENIED CHARGES.

Explained the Steamer Abbey Affair, Not Under Suspension.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Too ill to continue his journey to Washington without a day's rest, Dr. Edward Bedloe, United States consul at Canton, China, halted in Chicago and, while here, took occasion to deny the report that he is under suspension and to discuss the charges that have been filed against him with the state department. He said in part: "Thus far I have not been informed officially that any charges have been laid against me. The first intimation I had to that effect was when, on arriving in this country, I saw the reports in the newspapers."

"An American registry was granted to the steamer Abbey, it is true, but that was done more than a year ago, and at a time when the Filipinos were regarded as allies of the United States. The charge that I am in sympathy with the Filipinos is rank nonsense. The Abbey is a vessel so small as to be of no importance and when the American registry was granted the boat was under bond to the Chinese government to make a trip to Singapore. The bond subsequently forfeited."

COL. HAWKINS RESTS.

Warrior's Remains Placed In the Tomb.

THE FUNERAL EXERCISES TODAY.

Simple Services on the Campus of Washington and Jefferson College—Chaplain Hunter Spoke—Troops Acted as Escort. Tenth Regiment Attended.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—The body of Colonel Alexandr Leroy Hawkins was laid in its last earthly resting place today after simple ceremonies.

The town was profusely decorated in honor of the Tenth boys' homecoming and crepe had been added to the decorations in many places. At the cemetery entrance the two large pillars were wrapped with bands of red, white and blue, draped with crepe, and about the vault where the body laid flags waved in the breeze. Day and night a guard of soldiers had been on duty at the vault, and were kept there until this morning.

Special trains brought great crowds to the city. A troop train brought the troops from Pittsburg that acted as escort, the escort being composed of a battalion from the Eighteenth, three companies of the Fourteenth regiments and Company C, unassigned, of Washington, in command of Colonel W. J. Glenn. The Second Brigade band rendered the music.

The body was brought to the campus of Washington and Jefferson college, where the ceremonies were held, and placed in front of the speakers' stand.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle, chaplain of Ascension commandery No. 59 of Pittsburg. At the special request of Mrs. Hawkins, Rev. Joseph Hunter, chaplain of the Tenth regiment, preached the funeral sermon and Rev. Dr. Temple of the First United Presbyterian church, Washington, Pa., pronounced the benediction.

The honorary pallbearers were Colonel Smith, Colonel Kreps, Brit Hart, James S. Stocking, M. L. A. McCracken, Major S. L. Wilson, Judge McIlvaine and Sheldon Hayes.

At the close of these exercises the remains were escorted to the cemetery by the funeral escort. Immediately behind the casket came the relatives and specially invited friends. These were followed by the various orders, including the De Molay commandery of Washington county; Templeton post, G. A. R.; Hawkins' camp, Sons of Veterans; former members of Colonel Hawkins' command; Bealville Masonic lodge, of which Colonel Hawkins was a member; representatives of the Pittsburg Knights Templar; Post 120, G. A. R.; Camp 316, Sons of Veterans; about 100 members of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania cavalry. The members of the Tenth regiment, under Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, attended in a body. In addition to these Governor Stone and staff and a number of other national guard officers participated in the ceremonies.

Tenth Men Entertained.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 1.—Major Everhart Bierer, George W. Neff, Captain Daniel M. Bierer, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood and a number of privates were entertained by the lodge of Elks. Major Neff, Major Bierer and his brother, Captain Dan Bierer, related stories connected with the Philippines. Judge E. H. Reppert, R. H. Lindsey, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood, District Attorney Crow and others also spoke, along with Dr. J. B. Ewing and J. K. Ewing, Jr.

PENSION ROLL DECREASED.

Evans' Report Showed 40,991 Names Added and 43,186 Dropped.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The annual report of Hon. H. Clay Evans, commissioner of pensions, showed that during the year there were added to the pension roll 40,991 names and 43,186 were dropped, 34,345 of these by reason of death.

There was expended for pensions $138,355,052. The annual value of the entire pension roll amounts to $131,617,961, being $649,496 more than it ever was, due to the higher average annual value of pensions. The roll is made up of 753,451 surviving soldiers, 237,419 widows and dependent relatives and 653 nurses. The total number of original applications filed during the year, including those on account of the war with Spain, was 48,765. The number of original claims allowed was 37,077.

During the year 197,919 claims of all classes were rejected, a large percentage of these being claims for increase. The report will state that the delay in the adjudication of claims is in nearly every case the fault of the claimants or their attorneys.

In order that the present complex system of pensioning may be simplified and to secure a more uniform practice in the future, the appointment of a commission on the revision of the laws, rules and regulations was recommended.

Secretary Porter Returned.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Hon. John Addison Porter, secretary to the president, returned to the city after an absence of some months. He expects to resume his duties at the White House today.

General Roe said the other day that only military organizations would have a place in the line.

Help the Dewey Home Fund.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the Dewey home fund, and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer, issued a statement to the public saying in part: "The Dewey home fund now exceeds $21,000 in the hands of the treasurer, from 27,695 contributors, with sums aggregating about $15,000 or $18,000 reported as subscribed still held by local committees and subscribers." He then asks for more subscriptions. The committee has never received any declination from Admiral Dewey, and, on the contrary, has every reason to believe that he will accept the gift.

Dewey Sailed For Gibraltar.

VILLEFRANCHE, France, Sept. 1.—Admiral Dewey, on the cruiser Olympia, left for Gibraltar. The admiral said he was in perfect health. He expects to stay at Gibraltar until Sept. 12. He expressed pleasure, previous to his departure, at his stay here and dreads his countrymen's reception. The admiral's visit here was the most interesting in history of the harbor.

TO HONOR NEGRO HEROES.

Some Doing Gallant Service In Cuba to Be Given Commissions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adjutant General Corbin said that there were less than 100 appointment of volunteer officers yet to be made, and they belonged mainly to the states of Wisconsin, California and Ohio. All the field commissions in the volunteer establishment have been distributed with the exception of one lieutenant colonelcy and ten majorities. The governors of the states which contributed colored troops to the volunteer army in the war with Spain have been requested by the secretary of war to nominate company officers for the colored volunteer regiment. Colonel William P. Duvall of the Twenty-sixth infantry most probably will have command. The other regimental officers will be secured from the regular service, and there is a general understanding that most, if not all, the company officers will be appointed from the colored regiments which rendered such gallant and efficient service in the battles of El Caney and San Juan Hill in the Santiago campaign.

PRESIDENT FIGUEROA RESIGNED.

Reported He Did So In the Interest of Jiminez.

SAN DOMINGO, Sept. 1.—President

Figueroa has resigned. The ministers will continue at the head of their various departments until a provisional government has been formed, after which the elections for president and vice president will take place.

At Cape Haitien, Haiti, it is said that Figueroa has resigned in favor of Jiminez.

SANTIAGO, Sept. 1.—It was reported Jiminez would leave here today.

Formed to Control Pittsburg District Railroad Mines—Has Agreement With River Combine.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The Pittsburg rail coal mine combination has been formed and a meeting will be held within two weeks to elect officers. The new corporation is the Pittsburg Coal company and its capital stock is $64,000,000. It owns the coal properties of 104 of the 107 individuals and firms in the business, has practically absolute control of the docks and coal loading plants on the great lakes and has a monopoly on all the outlets to the coal markets of the east, west and northwest. There is an understanding between this combine and the combine of the river coal interests of the Pittsburg district, so that neither will encroach upon the territory of the other, thus putting the Pittsburg district, with its output of 23,918,504 tons of coal last year, in the hands of two great concerns.

Of that total output last year the properties now owned by the Pittsburg Coal company produced over 17,000,000 tons, and this year it is expected that the production will exceed 20,000,000 tons. Included in the assets of the concerns taken over are 81,236 acres of coal lands and 7,126 acres of surface land situated in the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland in Pennsylvania on the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system, the lines of the Pennsylvania company and those of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Pittsburg and Western railroads, with direct connections with many dock and loading plants.

HUNTING DYNAMITERS.

Officers Active Owing to the Injuries to Passengers by the Explosion in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The persons injured by the blowing up of a street car on Wilson avenue are not in a serious condition and will recover. A large number of patrolmen have been detailed for detective duty in citizens' clothing, and with them are operating the police detective force and squads of operatives from several private detective agencies, not to mention scores of amateurs who are out for the liberal rewards that have been offered.

An examination of the spot where the explosion occurred and the testimony of an expert on explosives who heard the report a short distance away show that nitroglycerin was the agent used in wrecking the car. The street railway strikers denounce the outrage and say they would offer a reward for the arrest of the perpetrators if the state of their treasury would warrant it.

Americans Made a Sally From Cebu Rebels Stopped Preparing to Attack Imus.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—Dispatches received from Cebu announced that the American troops under Colonel Bayless, with two field pieces, sallied into the hills against a band of natives who recently a bushed four of our soldiers and who have been generally troublesome. The American force found the natives entrenched and drove them from their trenches further into the hills. There were no casualties on the American side, though there were some heat prostrations. The natives' loss was not known.

The Fourth infantry having prepared to give the insurgents a warm reception, the latter ceased their preparations for an attack on Imus.

DR. BEDLOE DENIED CHARGES.

Explained the Steamer Abbey Affair, Not Under Suspension.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Too ill to continue his journey to Washington without a day's rest, Dr. Edward Bedloe, United States consul at Canton, China, halted in Chicago and, while here, took occasion to deny the report that he is under suspension and to discuss the charges that have been filed against him with the state department. He said in part: "Thus far I have not been informed officially that any charges have been laid against me. The first intimation I had to that effect was when, on arriving in this country, I saw the reports in the newspapers.

"An American registry was granted to the steamer Abbey, it is true, but that was done more than a year ago, and at a time when the Filipinos were regarded as allies of the United States. The charge that I am in sympathy with the Filipinos is rank nonsense. The Abbey is a vessel so small as to be of no importance and when the American registry was granted the boat was under bond to the Chinese government to make a trip to Singapore. The bond subsequently forfeited."

COL. HAWKINS RESTS.

Warrior's Remains Placed In the Tomb.

THE FUNERAL EXERCISES TODAY.

Simple Services on the Campus of Washington and Jefferson College—Chaplain Hunter Spoke—Troops Acted as Escort. Tenth Regiment Attended.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—The body of Colonel Alexandr Leroy Hawkins was laid in its last earthly resting place today after simple ceremonies.

The town was profusely decorated in honor of the Tenth boys' homecoming and crepe had been added to the decorations in many places. At the cemetery entrance the two large pillars were wrapped with bands of red, white and blue, draped with crepe, and about the vault where the body laid flags waved in the breeze. Day and night a guard of soldiers had been on duty at the vault, and were kept there until this morning.

Special trains brought great crowds to the city. A troop train brought the troops from Pittsburg that acted as escort, the escort being composed of a battalion from the Eighteenth, three companies of the Fourteenth regiments and Company C, unassigned, of Washington, in command of Colonel W. J. Glenn. The Second Brigade band rendered the music.

The body was brought to the campus of Washington and Jefferson college, where the ceremonies were held, and placed in front of the speakers' stand.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Dr. F. N. Boyle, chaplain of Ascalon commandery No. 59 of Pittsburg. At the special request of Mrs. Hawkins, Rev. Joseph Hunter, chaplain of the Tenth regiment, preached the funeral sermon and Rev. Dr. Temple of the First United Presbyterian church, Washington, Pa., pronounced the benediction.

The honorary pallbearers were Colonel Smith, Colonel Kreps, Brit Hart, James S. Stocking, M. L. A. McCracken, Major S. L. Wilson, Judge McIlvaine and Sheldon Hayes.

At the close of these exercises the remains were escorted to the cemetery by the funeral escort. Immediately behind the casket came the relatives and specially invited friends. These were followed by the various orders, including the De Molay commandery of Washington county; Templeton post, G. A. R.; Hawkins' camp, Sons of Veterans; former members of Colonel Hawkins' command; Bealville Masonic lodge, of which Colonel Hawkins was a member; representatives of the Pittsburg Knights Templar; Post 120, G. A. R.; Camp 316, Sons of Veterans; about 100 members of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania cavalry. The members of the Tenth regiment, under Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, attended in a body. In addition to these Governor Stone and staff and a number of other national guard officers participated in the ceremonies.

Tenth Men Entertained.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 1.—Major Everhart Bierer, George W. Neff, Captain Daniel M. Bierer, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood and a number of privates were entertained by the lodge of Elks. Major Neff, Major Bierer and his brother, Captain Dan Bierer, related stories connected with the Philippines. Judge E. H. Reppert, R. H. Lindsey, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood, District Attorney Crow and others also spoke, along with Dr. J. B. Ewing and J. K. Ewing, Jr.

PENSION ROLL DECREASED.

Evans' Report Showed 40,991 Names Added and 43,186 Dropped.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The annual report of Hon. H. Clay Evans, commissioner of pensions, showed that during the year there were added to the pension roll 40,991 names and 43,186 were dropped, 34,345 of these by reason of death.

There was expended for pensions $138,355,052. The annual value of the entire pension roll amounts to $131,617,961, being $649,496 more than it ever was, due to the higher average annual value of pensions. The roll is made up of 753,451 surviving soldiers, 237,415 widows and dependent relatives and 653 nurses. The total number of original applications filed during the year, including those on account of the war with Spain, was 48,765. The number of original claims allowed was 37,977.

During the year 107,919 claims of all classes were rejected, a large percentage of these being claims for increase. The report will state that the delay in the adjudication of claims is in nearly every case the fault of the claimants or their attorneys.

In order that the present complex system of pensioning may be simplified and to secure a more uniform practice in the future, the appointment of a commission on the revision of the laws, rules and regulations was recommended.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Hon. John Addison Porter, secretary to the president, returned to the city after an absence of some months. He expects to resume his duties at the White House today.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

15TH YEAR. NO. 72.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, SEPT. 1, 1899.

TWO CENTS

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

PRISONER GAVE WAY TO TEARS.

Much Touched When Forzinetti Described Sad Scenes at Prison—Generals May Intend to Change Their Tactics. Alleged Confession Denied by Dreyfus.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Dreyfus gave way to his feelings and found relief in tears, at his trial by courtmartial, as Major Forzinetti told the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, as an angel, pointing out the road of duty. The prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and teardrops trickled down his cheeks. He rose and after a forced effort to remain calm, as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to Colonel Du Paty de Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forzinetti with a look of thanks for his consolation so needed. Dreyfus then uttered these words of heartfelt gratitude to his wife for the courage with which she inspired him:

"It is due to her," he cried, "that I am alive today."

During the proceedings Lieutenant Colonel Brongniart asked Colonel Guerin if he thought M. Weil, who is a friend of Esterhazy, also knew Dreyfus. The latter at once rose and declared he had never before heard of Weil. The point of this question was that Esterhazy has written to Colonel Jouanet, as announced, and has undoubtedly mentioned Weil as a go-between for Dreyfus. If relations can be proved between Dreyfus and Weil, and Esterhazy admits obtaining treasonable information from Weil, then he could assume Dreyfus was a traitor.

The generals, if sufficient evidence of a Dreyfus-Weil-Esterhazy connection can be produced, can abandon the contention that Dreyfus wrote the bordereau and admit Esterhazy is the author of it. This is possibly the change of tactics on the part of the generals hinted at recently.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Lebrun-Renault testified, at the Dreyfus courtmartial, that he and his squadron were detailed to take Dreyfus to the military school Jan. 5, 1895, where the degradation was to occur.

He began to protest his innocence and to say that, with considerable means at his disposal and a bright future in store for him, he could have no motive in being guilty of treason. He said:

"I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged. The minister knows it well. He told Du Paty de Clam to tell me so, some days ago, in my cell. He knows that if I communicated documents to Germany they were of no importance, and it was to obtain more serious and more important documents."

Captain D'Attel was present. Artillerymen and a corporal took Dreyfus to the place of degradation.

Referring to articles in the newspapers in regard to the confession, Captain Lebrun-Renault said:

"General Mercier said to me: 'Go to the Elysee and repeat to the president of the republic what you have told me.'"

"While I was in the anteroom I heard some one remark about me in very discourteous terms. M. Dupuy ushered me before the president, who said: 'You have had relations with journalists and have been indiscreet. Certain articles have appeared in the newspapers.'"

"I replied that perhaps journalists were among the persons I had seen, but I said I had not spoken directly to journalists. No mention was made of the confession, and I left after having received a lecture from the president. M. Dupuy took me into another room and drew up a semi-official note to the effect that I had no relations with the press."

A judge—Did the president know why you came to the Elysee?

Captain Lebrun-Renault—The president was notified that I was coming. For my part, I was somewhat intimidated, which is easily explained. I heard myself described as a "traitor," "canaille" and "cur." That was not encouraging.

M. Demange asked how the witness could detect a confession in the words "I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged."

The witness refused to say whether or not he regarded the words of Dreyfus as a confession.

M. Labori—Why did the witness keep the leaf of his pocketbook with the note of the confessions for years? The witness seems to say it was mere chance, I am surprised that the witness destroyed it just the day after it was mentioned in the chamber of deputies.

To this, Captain Lebrun-Renault replied that at that time he considered that the document he possessed was authenticated by the copy made of it by M. Cavaignac the day before it was destroyed.

M. Labori—The court will draw its own conclusions.

M. Labori said he was much surprised that the witness had not referred to the abuse at the Elysee, before the court of cassation.

Asked if he had anything to say, Dreyfus declared that when he was at the military school, on the day of his degradation, Colonel Lebrun-Renault did not leave him. As far as he could remember D'Attel was not present.

Further along, in telling of his conversation with Lebrun-Renault, he declared that he said to him:

"I am innocent, and I will say it aloud to the whole people. The minister well knows it."

"I have already explained to the court what I meant. It was the reply I had given to Colonel Du Paty de Clam when he visited me in prison, in the course of which I protested that I was innocent. I completed that declaration by a letter I wrote to the minister, redeclaring that I was innocent. Du Paty de Clam asked me whether I had not given unimportant documents in order to get more important ones in exchange for them. I replied, word for word, 'no,' that I wanted the matter cleared up, and concluded with saying, 'but before two or three years my innocence would be acknowledged.'"

"Allow me," continued Dreyfus, "to express the emotion and surprise I feel today, after five years, when I see a witness, who, after hearing such words, beginning with a protest of innocence, reported them to his chiefs without asking the most concerned person for an explanation of them. These are proceedings in the face of which all honest people can only express indignation." [Great sensation.]

Captain Anthoine said D'Attel told him that Dreyfus had made remarks the meaning of which to his mind clearly, was: First, a formal confession that he had delivered documents; second, an allegation that the documents were unimportant; third, that the prisoner's object was to obtain more important documents in exchange.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled, admitted that Captain D'Attel did not speak to the prisoner, but he added that D'Attel was in the room and certainly heard the words uttered by Dreyfus.

M. Labori—What is very certain is that Captain D'Attel made no report of the incident to his chiefs.

General Mercier—No. Lieutenant Colonel Guerin, said Dreyfus, after the degradation addressed a group of officers, saying that in three years justice would be done him. He reported this to General Saussier.

M. Demange—Was it suggested that steps be taken to verify the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—I do not recollect. M. Demange—So there was no attempt to interrogate Dreyfus in regard to the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—The case had passed out of the hands of the military authorities, the prisoner having been handed over to the civil authorities.

One of the judges asked the witness whether M. Weil, when attached to the army headquarters, had relations with Esterhazy, to which Colonel Guerin replied that he believed M. Weil had known Esterhazy for a long time.

The Judge—Do you think Weil knew the prisoner?

Colonel Guerin—I do not know.

Dreyfus here remarked that he never knew Weil.

Others also told of hearing of the alleged confession.

When called upon to reply Dreyfus declared he had never said his trial would be revised in three years. He gave the explanation he had previously given, and said there was no sinister motive in his mind such as had been attached to those words.

[Note—Dreyfus evidently referred to the general staff's suggestion that when he used the expression "three years" he knew that Esterhazy would then appear as a man of straw and try to take his (the prisoner's) place.]

Major Forzinetti, who was governor of the Cherche Midt prison while Dreyfus was confined there, testified that while in prison Dreyfus always seemed to have the bearing of an innocent man and always asserted his innocence. The witness added that he told General de Boisdeffre that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Continuing Major Forzinetti said he was intimate with Captain Lebrun-Renault and Captain D'Attel and neither of them ever mentioned to him the alleged confession of Dreyfus.

The witness also recalled the despair of Dreyfus after his conviction and the regrets he expressed at not having resigned. Dreyfus, the major also said, talked of committing suicide.

When Dreyfus rose to reply he admitted that after his degradation he intended to commit suicide, but he added that if he succeeded in enduring the torture inflicted it was owing to his wife, who made him understand his duty. [Commotion.]

Major Forzinetti corroborated this. He said Dreyfus' statement was quite correct.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled by Colonel Jouanet, said he did not tell Major Forzinetti of Dreyfus' confession because General Risbourg, his commanding officer, had told him to hold his tongue.

General de Boisdeffre also asserted that there were inaccuracies in Major Forzinetti's evidence. The general denied that the major ever declared to him that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Replying to M. Demange, Major Forzinetti said he adhered to all the evidence he had given before the court of cassation.

AN IMPERIALISM ROW.

Incipient Riot at a Lecture In Cincinnati.

MEN TRIED TO STRIKE HALSTEAD.

Anti-Imperialists Called Traitors For Wishing the American Army Routed and Captured—Men There Who Would Have Fought For Halstead.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Editor Murat Halstead lectured, by invitation, before the Economic club, in this city. The audience was miscellaneous, in addition to the members of the club, which is largely anti-imperialistic. Mr. Halstead's subject was the Philippines. After the lecture, according to the rules of the club, Mr. Halstead was plying with questions. One of the questioners with decided sympathy for Aguinaldo after his question had been answered, added the remark: "I hope Otis will be kept in and will keep on blundering till he and the whole army are driven into the sea or captured." Mr. Halstead said: "A man with those sentiments is a traitor to his country."

Mr. Halstead replied: "Whoever thinks that way is a traitor."

Then there was a rush down the hall with raised fists toward Mr. Halstead, but a great number of men stepped in between Mr. Halstead and those who rushing at him.

There was a great noise and uproar which disclosed the fact that the audience was composed of men on both sides of that question. Mr. Halstead was quietly led out of the church by a side door and taken home. No blows were struck, but chairs and seats were upset and there were loud threats and great uproarousness.

LADIES WANT TO PARADE.

Mrs. Giddings Proposed to Take Her Command to New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Alexander Giddings of Cleveland has written to the Dewey reception executive committee as commander of the "White escort" of Cleveland, asking for a place in the line during the parade. She describes her command as consisting of "124 young ladies all dressed in pure white and carrying bright silk flags." The letter was forwarded to General Roe, who has charge of the makeup of the land parade.

General Roe said the other day that only military organizations would have a place in the line.

Within a short time residences will be built on the ground known as Columbian park, and on the hillside overlooking the park as far back as 900 feet. The matter is now assuming shape. There are seven prominent men in the deal, and when their plans are carried out the place will be a credit to any city double the size of Liverpool. This morning a gentleman interested said: "It is the intention of the company to build modern residences which will front on the race track. The track will be known

As a Boulevard and will be improved to a considerable extent. The hillside will be terraced and while the houses will be of frame they will be modern in every respect. There will be a street constructed through the center of the oval bounded by the race track for heavy hauling as none will be allowed on the boulevard. Another street car line will lead to the place and within a few weeks an application will be made to council for a franchise. The matter has been thoroughly considered by the men who are interested and they have enough capital at their command to carry out their ideas.

GENEROUS PEOPLE.

Residents Willing to Help Any and All Who Are in Need.

It is a well known fact that when any person in East End is in destitute circumstances all they have to do is to make it known and assistance is at once extended. Within the last three weeks several papers have been circulated among the East End people for the purpose of helping those who are in need. A few days ago George Wright of St. George street was surprised to find that his friends had raised a purse amounting to $41 for his benefit. He is employed at the Globe pottery, but has not been working steadily for some time on account of sickness. His daughter died recently and this was a severe blow to the family. The employees at an East End pottery are selling a bicycle for the benefit of one of their workmen who is ill and expect to give him the proceeds within a few days.

SOUTH SIDE. HIT BY A STREET CAR

Alex Pugh, of Chester, Was Injured Yesterday.

MOTORMAN DIDN'T KNOW IT

Robert Stewart Has Leased a New Farm For Several Years--Robert Marshall and John Martin Figure In a Peculiar Deal. Boys Stung by Bees--News.

Alexander Pugh, aged 68 years, and one of the best known residents in the Grant district, was accidentally struck by a Rock Spring car yesterday afternoon and sustained several bad bruises. His right shoulder was bruised and his right foot was badly injured near the ankle. Mr. Pugh was walking along the narrow path near the office of Engineer McConnell, but too near the track. He thought he was out of the way of the car and did not change his course. When he was struck the motorman did not stop the car, and not until late in the afternoon did he learn his car had struck Mr. Pugh. The accident is one of the most peculiar that has happened on the Southside for many months, and the motorman has been exonerated from all blame.

LEASED A FARM.

Robert Stewart Is Now Working a New Piece of Land.

The Malinda Penny farm, in Grant district, was leased recently at public auction by Special Commissioner E. A. Hart at the court house. Robt. Stewart was the highest bidder, and the farm was leased to him for a period of two years for the sum of $50.

Marshall Out of Business.

When Robert Marshall purchased the express business of John Martin he thought he had a good thing. After working the horse about six hours a call was made on Martin and Marshall resold the horse and wagon to him for $122.50, losing $2.50 on the deal. Martin had purchased another outfit and when he fixed up accounts found he had lost $2.50 by the deal too.

Council Should Investigate the Garbage Question

BEFORE GRANTING A MONOPOLY

To the Sanitary Reduction Company or Any Private Concern--Other Cities Own Their Own Furnaces and This City Should Follow Suit.

A prominent citizen today in speaking of the garbage question said:

"Council should do a little investigating before they award the contract for disposing of the garbage to a private corporation.

"The franchise is too valuable a one to be given away by the city, and if there is a furnace built the city should follow the example of McKeesport, Youngstown, Martin's Ferry and a number of other cities and have their own furnace. Canton is in the same fix as East Liverpool but the council of that city didn't for a moment think of awarding the franchise to a private corporation but are now making arrangements to build their own furnace.

"In Youngstown and McKeesport the Dixon system is in use and has been highly successful and the furnaces are almost self sustaining as all the expense attached to operate them is the coal and one man at the furnace. The furnaces can be built for not more than $4,000 and it can be readily seen that it is a paying investment to a private corporation. If the council will take the trouble to secure statistics from cities operating their own furnaces they will readily find out why it is the head man of the Sanitary Reduction company is so anxious to get a contract that he will resign his position as clerk of the board of health in order that he may do business with council.

"Another feature to be deplored in a private company is that if the service is not good the city is compelled to grin and bear, while if the city owns the furnace it will be placed in care of the board of health, and if they don't do their duty well the council can at any time remove the board. The garbage is hauled to the city furnaces by private haulers, and the health officers or sanitary policeman can at any time compel citizens to have the garbage taken to the furnace.

"The council should not go at this matter blind and the ordinance when it reaches its third reading should be laid over as the day for giving away valuable franchises like this one has passed. The only practical way to get rid of the garbage is for the city to advertise for bids for building the furnace and to take the matter in their own hands.

"Another feature of the city owning the furnace is the fact that it will not cost the taxpayers near as much in the long run to build a furnace as it will to pay the rates charged by a private concern. Make a thorough investigation, members of council, and we are sure you will never award a franchise to the Sanitary Reduction company or any other private concern. The board of health disposed of the matter in a hurry and failed to look into the affair or they would never have recommended such a contract."

SOUTH SIDE. HIT BY A STREET CAR

Alex Pugh, of Chester, Was Injured Yesterday.

MOTORMAN DIDN'T KNOW IT

Robert Stewart Has Leased a New Farm For Several Years--Robert Marshall and John Martin Figure In a Peculiar Deal. Boys Stung by Bees--News.

Alexander Pugh, aged 68 years, and one of the best known residents in the Grant district, was accidentally struck by a Rock Spring car yesterday afternoon and sustained several bad bruises. His right shoulder was bruised and his right foot was badly injured near the ankle. Mr. Pugh was walking along the narrow path near the office of Engineer McConnell, but too near the track. He thought he was out of the way of the car and did not change his course. When he was struck the motorman did not stop the car, and not until late in the afternoon did he learn his car had struck Mr. Pugh. The accident is one of the most peculiar that has happened on the Southside for many months, and the motorman has been exonerated from all blame.

LEASED A FARM.

Robert Stewart Is Now Working a New Piece of Land.

The Malinda Penny farm, in Grant district, was leased recently at public auction by Special Commissioner E. A. Hart at the court house. Robt. Stewart was the highest bidder, and the farm was leased to him for a period of two years for the sum of $50.

Marshall Out of Business.

When Robert Marshall purchased the express business of John Martin he thought he had a good thing. After working the horse about six hours a call was made on Martin and Marshall resold the horse and wagon to him for $122.50, losing $2.50 on the deal. Martin had purchased another outfit and when he fixed up accounts found he had lost $2.50 by the deal too.

"The council should not go at this matter blind and the ordinance when it reaches its third reading should be laid over as the day for giving away valuable franchises like this one has passed. The only practical way to get rid of the garbage is for the city to advertise for bids for building the furnace and to take the matter in their own hands.

"Another feature of the city owning the furnace is the fact that it will not cost the taxpayers near as much in the long run to build a furnace as it will to pay the rates charged by a private concern. Make a thorough investigation, members of council, and we are sure you will never award a franchise to the Sanitary Reduction company or any other private concern. The board of health disposed of the matter in a hurry and failed to look into the affair or they would never have recommended such a contract."

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, SEPT. 1.

HALF a vote's better than none.—
John R. McLean.

McLEAN may not be an orator, but he'll be able to put plenty of gas into the campaign.

THE bicycle trust had no trouble raising the wind, but it had better look out for punctures.

JIMMY RICE's prediction that some people would be surprised at Zanesville came true. He was one of them.

THE Bell phone people in Wellsville can truthfully say "the line's busy now." All Wellsville is talking.

ALL the Democratic papers in the state printed campaign pictures of John R. McLean yesterday in his easiest
hand in his pocket ready to disburse.

MEANS A FIGHT.

The purchase of the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio by John R.
McLean means that the Republicans of the President's state will have their work cut out for them this fall. When Millionaire McLean buys anything, whether it be a newspaper, a gas plant,
trust stock or a Democratic nomination,
he intends to get out of it all there is in it. He has more money, influence and resources at his command than any Democratic candidate for governor of the Buckeye state for years and will undoubtedly make a hot fight. The Republicans who are joking over his nomination are making a big mistake.
Belittling the enemy results in general apathy and frequently in defeat. While there is no doubt of Republican success
if an ordinarily full vote is polled, the duty of every Republican from now until election day will be to urge his neighbor to come out and cast his vote for Nash, the whole Republican ticket, and the principles which mean peace
and prosperity.

DO YOUR DUTY.

While thousands of honest Democrats bowed their heads in humiliation and shame when the news of McLean's nomination became known, the Republicans have in George K. Nash, a nominee whom every member of the party can respect and vote for. The entire Republican ticket is composed of men of like calibre and the Republican platform is made up of the planks which have brought the country prosperity.
Republican triumph next November will mean a continuance of prosperity;
it will uphold the policy and principles of the Republican president; it will be best for the interests of East Liverpool, for the good name of the state and the welfare of the nation. Republican success will mean honest money and honest wages. Every ballot cast for George K. Nash and the Republican ticket will give actual aid and enthusiastic encouragement to the men who are fighting for the flag in the far-off Philippines.
It will proclaim to all the world that Ohio has no sympathy with traitors to the flag, but is firm and steadfast in the faith of the fathers. Ohio must go Republican and it surely will if every Republican does his duty to his principles and his party.

FLOYD STEARNS DEAD

He Fell Into a Kettle of Hot
Tomatoes

AND WAS FATALLY BURNED

The Little One Was the Only Child of Mr.
and Mrs. J. W. Stearns of the West End
and the Parents Are Heart Broken.
Philip J. Green Died This Morning.

Floyd Stearns, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stearns, died this morning at their home in West End as a result of burns received yesterday.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Stearns was making tomato butter and had lifted the kettle full of steaming tomatoes from the stove and put it on the floor. She started for the door to throw out a pan of water and was followed by the child, who tripped just as he passed the kettle and fell backwards into the steaming tomatoes.
The mother snatched her child out of the red hot tomatoes at once but he had been horribly burned and the united efforts of three physicians could not save him and he died at 9 o'clock this morning.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence in West End. Interment will be made at Riverview.

Philip J. Green died this morning at his home on Third street. Deceased was very well known in the city and had been a veterinary surgeon here for years.

HALF a vote's better than none.—
John R. McLean.

MCLEAN may not be an orator, but he'll be able to put plenty of gas into the campaign.

THE bicycle trust had no trouble raising the wind, but it had better look out for punctures.

JIMMY RICE's prediction that some people would be surprised at Zanesville
came true. He was one of them.

THE Bell phone people in Wellsville
can truthfully say "the line's busy
now." All Wellsville is talking.

ALL the Democratic papers in the state printed campaign pictures of John R. McLean yesterday in his easiest
hand in his pocket ready to disburse.

MEANS A FIGHT.

The purchase of the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio by John R.
McLean means that the Republicans of the President's state will have their work cut out for them this fall. When Millionaire McLean buys anything,
whether it be a newspaper, a gas plant,
trust stock or a Democratic nomination,
he intends to get out of it all there is
and resources at his command than any Democratic candidate for governor of the Buckeye state for years and will undoubtedly make a hot fight. The Republicans who are joking over his nomination are making a big mistake.
Belittling the enemy results in general apathy and frequently in defeat. While there is no doubt of Republican success
if an ordinarily full vote is polled, the duty of every Republican from now until election day will be to urge his neighbor to come out and cast his vote
for Nash, the whole Republican ticket, and the principles which mean peace
and prosperity.

DO YOUR DUTY.

While thousands of honest Democrats bowed their heads in humiliation and shame when the news of McLean's nomination became known, the Republicans have in George K. Nash, a nominee whom every member of the party can respect and vote for. The entire Republican ticket is composed of men of like calibre and the Republican platform is made up of the planks which have brought the country prosperity.
Republican triumph next November
will mean a continuance of prosperity;
it will uphold the policy and principles of the Republican president; it will be best for the interests of East Liverpool,
for the good name of the state and the welfare of the nation. Republican success will mean honest money and honest wages. Every ballot cast for George K. Nash and the Republican ticket will give actual aid and enthusiastic encouragement to the men who are fighting
for the flag in the far-off Philippines.
It will proclaim to all the world that Ohio has no sympathy with traitors to the flag, but is firm and steadfast in the faith of the fathers. Ohio must go Re-
Republican does his duty to his principles and his party.

Will Elect a Clerk.

The board of health will meet this evening and among other things will elect a clerk to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Clerk Bursner.

FLOYD STEARNS DEAD

He Fell Into a Kettle of Hot
Tomatoes

AND WAS FATALLY BURNED

The Little One Was the Only Child of Mr.
and Mrs. J. W. Stearns of the West End
and the Parents Are Heart Broken.
Philip J. Green Died This Morning.

Floyd Stearns, the 5-year-old son of
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stearns, died this morning at their home in West End as a result of burns received yesterday.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Stearns was making tomato butter and had lifted
the kettle full of steaming tomatoes
from the stove and put it on the floor. She started for the door to throw out a pan of water and was followed by the child, who tripped just as he passed the kettle and fell backwards into the steaming tomatoes.
The mother snatched her child out of the red hot tomatoes at once but he had been horribly burned and the united efforts of three physicians could not save him and he died at 9 o'clock this morning.

The funeral will take place tomorrow
afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence in West End. Interment will be made at Riverview.

Philip J. Green died this morning at his home on Third street. Deceased was very well known in the city and
years.

Going to Europe.

Mrs. John McFadden left today for New York and tomorrow she will sail
on board the Lucania for Liverpool, Eng. From there she will go to Glasgow.

COURT TAKES A HAND

And Issues an Injunction Restraining Bell Telephone

FROM PLANTING THEIR POLES

On Main Street, Wellsville, Until a Hearing Can Be Had—Both the City and Property Owners Appeal to Court—Wellsville Wrought Up to Wild Excitement.

LISBON, Sept. 1.—[Special]—Last evening Hannah E. Aten and W. C. Bunting applied for injunctions to enjoin the Bell Telephone company from planting poles in front of their properties on Main street, Wellsville.

Argument was begun before Judge Boone at 6 o'clock and continued until 8:30 when an injunction was granted the applicants, under $400 bond, enjoining the Bell company from digging holes or planting poles in front of the properties involved.

At 8 o'clock another application was filed on behalf of the city of Wellsville asking for a blanket injunction to restrain the Bell people from digging holes or planting poles anywhere on Main street. It was also granted temporarily.

CLAIM THERE WAS A MISTAKE MADE

And That the Injunctions Were Granted Under a Misapprehension of Fact.

LISBON, Sept. 1.—Noon—[Special]—It now appears that the injunction granted the city of Wellsville against the Bell people was granted under a misapprehension. The petitioners stated the Bell people had no ordinance granting them any rights in Main street and this not being disputed at the time Judge Boone granted the temporary injunction.

This morning however the Bell people, through their attorney, Judge Billingsley, filed with the judge a copy of an ordinance passed by Wellsville council years ago, granting the rights now maintained. The question now at issue is whether this ordinance is or is not a valid ordinance and will be decided at the hearing in common police court when evidence will be heard pro and con.

WELLSVILLE'S WAR.

The Whole Town Up In Arms Against the Bell Phone People.

It has been a long time since Wellsville people were so wrought up as they were yesterday and today over the attempt of the Bell Telephone company to override the wishes of the city council and the citizens in planting poles for their new cable system on Main street instead of on the alleys as the new Columbiana county phone people are doing.

The news of the temporary injunction secured restraining the company was received with unanimous rejoicing by the citizens.

The excitement was increased when the news of the discovery of an alleged error in the injunction cases reached Wellsville at noon. The city officials stoutly maintain the ordinance referred to is no good.

A PETITION.

Young People's Societies of the City Will Protest Against Polygamy.

A petition will be presented Sunday evening to all the young people's societies in the city asking congress to make polygamy unlawful and asking that Congressman Roberts, of Utah, be not seated in the house of representatives. RYAN AND GOLF MET

And Ryan Got the Worst of a Pitched Battle.

HIS NAME WAS DENNIS

When Golf Got Through Playing With His Face--The Men Go Before the Mayor and One of Them Is Fined $10.00 While the Other Pleads Not Guilty.

Alfred Golf and Dennis Ryan were arrested last evening for fighting at their boarding house on Broadway.

They spent the night in the city jail and Golf was the first one to appear before the mayor. He had a scratch on his left eye and looked very much as though he had been in a scrap. He gave a detailed account of how the fight occurred, and from his story he was not to blame, but the mayor fined him $10.00 and he was put in jail.

Dennis Ryan came next and judging by his looks his name had been Dennis in the fight. His right cheek was black and blue and was swelled considerably. There were blood stains all over his shirt front and he had a scratch back of his ear. According to his story there was a man working at the McNicol pottery whom Golf had said he would do up and the man was afraid of his life and Dennis was employed as a safeguard. He acknowledged that he had drunk four glasses of beer, but said it didn't make him drunk. Golf was denounced as a dangerous man and prize fighter and Ryan said Golf hit him in the back of the head and on the cheek and then fled out into the darkness. He said he threw two bottles at Golf in order to protect himself, but neither of them took effect. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of fighting and was sent back to jail until the mayor could interview Officer Woods. Ryan was fined $11.50.

A Libel on Gotham.

The nearest approach to a system ever yet made by a New York deputy assessor of personal taxes was invented by one who was somewhat of a card player.

He took a pack of cards, gave a value to each card and then drew a card from the pack for each name on his list. A deuce meant $2,000, a tray $3,000, a four $4,000 and so on up to the knave, which was valued at $20,000, the queen at $30,000, the king at $40,000 and the ace at $50,000. If anything less than a five spot was drawn, he erased the name from the list, as it is customary to assess only those who are supposed to possess $5,000 or more of personal estate.

The especially amusing thing about this man's work was that there were fewer objections made to his assessments than to those of any other deputy. He gained a reputation for hard work, and his salary was raised twice in one year.—Buffalo Express.

The Curate's Trousers.

A clergyman who has been an ideal rector to one congregation for more than 20 years has had a wide experience in curates. He knows them like a book, as the saying is, knows just what effect an unlimited course of afternoon teas, committee meetings, little dinners and general flattery will have on a given temperament and how it will be manifested.

Therefore, he has evolved this general law: If the carpet before a curate's mirror is threadbare and the crease in his trousers above reproach, you may be sure that the world is too much with him; if the carpet by his bedside is threadbare and his trousers bag at the knee, he is all right.—Washington Post.

Couldn't Keep a Secret.

They were discussing the question as to whether a woman can keep a secret.

Little Johnny had not appeared to be listening, but he suddenly added his contribution to the stock of general intelligence by exclaiming: "Well, I know ma can't keep a secret! Everything I do she goes and tells it to pa almost the first minute he gets into the house!"—Boston Transcript.

Lots of people claim heaven as their right and yet have not learned how to make any right use of the earth.—Keokuk Gate City.

In this city and vicinity.

This is the revised edition and is right up to date. It contains general maps covering every part of the world, complete and accurate, but its special interest is found in the new maps and descriptive matter pertaining to the

New American Colonies,

The Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba, Manila and vicinity, including a chronology of all the important events of the Spanish-American war.

The Dewey Souvenir,

A handsomely engraved colored plate, containing excellent portraits of Admirals Dewey and Farragut and the American naval commanders in the Orient, forms the frontispiece of the book. In the center is a beautiful picture in colors of the Battle of Manila Bay, showing the position of each of the American and Spanish vessels and the scenery of the bay, drawn from official descriptions.

Photographs

Of the leading American war ships and portraits of all the presidents are also shown. All the maps are fully and completely indexed so that it is possible in a moment to find any place desired. Population, area and other interesting information is given briefly and accurately up to date.

The map showing how the United States have expanded since the foundation of this government is one of the most valuable features of the book, as it shows

RYAN AND GOLF MET

And Ryan Got the Worst of a Pitched Battle.

HIS NAME WAS DENNIS

When Golf Got Through Playing With His Face—The Men Go Before the Mayor and One of Them Is Fined $10.00 While the Other Pleads Not Guilty.

Alfred Golf and Dennis Ryan were arrested last evening for fighting at their boarding house on Broadway.

They spent the night in the city jail and Golf was the first one to appear before the mayor. He had a scratch on his left eye and looked very much as though he had been in a scrap. He gave a detailed account of how the fight occurred, and from his story he was not to blame, but the mayor fined him $10.00 and he was put in jail.

Dennis Ryan came next and judging by his looks his name had been Dennis in the fight. His right cheek was black and blue and was swelled considerably. There were blood stains all over his shirt front and he had a scratch back of his ear. According to his story there was a man working at the McNicol pottery whom Golf had said he would do up and the man was afraid of his life and Dennis was employed as a safeguard. He acknowledged that he had drunk four glasses of beer, but said it didn't make him drunk. Golf was denounced as a dangerous man and prize fighter and Ryan said Golf hit him in the back of the head and on the cheek and then fled out into the darkness. He said he threw two bottles at Golf in order to protect himself, but neither of them took effect. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of fighting and was sent back to jail until the mayor could interview Officer Woods. Ryan was fined $11 50.

The nearest approach to a system ever yet made by a New York deputy assessor of personal taxes was invented by one who was somewhat of a card player.

He took a pack of cards, gave a value to each card and then drew a card from the pack for each name on his list. A deuce meant $2,000, a tray $3,000, a four $4,000 and so on up to the knave, which was valued at $20,000, the queen at $30,000, the king at $40,000 and the ace at $50,000. If anything less than a five spot was drawn, he erased the name from the list, as it is customary to assess only those who are supposed to possess $5,000 or more of personal estate.

The especially amusing thing about this man's work was that there were fewer objections made to his assessments than to those of any other deputy. He gained a reputation for hard work, and his salary was raised twice in one year. —Buffalo Express.

The Curate's Trousers.

A clergyman who has been an ideal rector to one congregation for more than 20 years has had a wide experience in curates. He knows them like a book, as the saying is, knows just what effect an unlimited course of afternoon teas, committee meetings, little dinners and general flattery will have on a given temperament and how it will be manifested.

Therefore, he has evolved this general law: If the carpet before a curate's mirror is threadbare and the crease in his trousers above reproach, you may be sure that the world is too much with him; if the carpet by his bedside is threadbare and his trousers bag at the knee, he is all right. —Washington Post.

COURT TAKES A HAND

FROM PLANTING THEIR POLES

On Main Street, Wellsville, Until a Hearing Can Be Had—Both the City and Property Owners Appeal to Court—Wellsville Wrought Up to Wild Excitement.

LISBON, Sept. 1.—[Special]—Last evening Hannah E. Aten and W. C. Bunting applied for injunctions to enjoin the Bell Telephone company from planting poles in front of their properties on Main street, Wellsville.

Argument was begun before Judge Boone at 6 o'clock and continued until 8:30 when an injunction was granted the applicants, under $400 bond, enjoining the Bell company from digging holes or planting poles in front of the properties involved.

At 8 o'clock another application was filed on behalf of the city of Wellsville asking for a blanket injunction to restrain the Bell people from digging holes or planting poles anywhere on Main street. It was also granted temporarily.

CLAIM THERE WAS A MISTAKE MADE

And That the Injunctions Were Granted Under a Misapprehension of Fact.

LISBON, Sept. 1.—Noon—[Special]—It now appears that the injunction granted the city of Wellsville against the Bell people was granted under a misapprehension. The petitioners stated the Bell people had no ordinance granting them any rights in Main street and this not being disputed at the time Judge Boone granted the temporary injunction.

This morning however the Bell people, through their attorney, Judge Billingsley, filed with the judge a copy of an ordinance passed by Wellsville council years ago, granting the rights now maintained. The question now at issue is whether this ordinance is or is not a valid ordinance and will be decided at the hearing in common police court when evidence will be heard pro and con.

WELLSVILLE'S WAR.

The Whole Town Up in Arms Against the Bell Phone People.

It has been a long time since Wellsville people were so wrought up as they were yesterday and today over the attempt of the Bell Telephone company to override the wishes of the city council and the citizens in planting poles for their new cable system on Main street instead of on the alleys as the new Columbiana county phone people are doing.

The news of the temporary injunction secured restraining the company was received with unanimous rejoicing by the citizens.

The excitement was increased when the news of the discovery of an alleged error in the injunction cases reached Wellsville at noon. The city officials stoutly maintain the ordinance referred to is no good.

A PETITION.

Young People's Societies of the City Will Protest Against Polygamy.

A petition will be presented Sunday evening to all the young people's societies in the city asking congress to make polygamy unlawful and asking that Congressman Roberts, of Utah, be not seated in the house of representatives. A copy of the petition when completed will be sent to Hon. R. W. Taylor, Senators Hanna and Foraker and President McKinley.

PREHISTORIC FOSSILS.

Some Interesting Discoveries Recently Made In Wyoming.

HOW THEY WERE UNEARTHED.

New System Inaugurated In Quarrying the Fossils and In Extracting the Bones With as Little Damage as Possible—Many Valuable Skeletons Have Been Discovered.

Professor Henry F. Osborne, in charge of the geological department of Columbia university and connected with the American Museum of Natural History in New York, arrived in Denver recently from the fossil fields at Aurora, Wy. Professor Osborne is in charge of the work at that place which is being carried on under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History, says the Denver Republican.

"This is our eighth season at the work," he said the other afternoon, "and it has been our best. We have discovered many valuable skeletons and a large quantity of miscellaneous bones. We are in search chiefly of dinosaur fossil remains, and the quarries in which we have been working have proved rich in just the specimens that we sought. Two years ago we began work in digging out a large skeleton, which turned out to be half complete. It was about 70 feet long. This year we have completed the excavation of a skeleton which lacks but little of being absolutely perfect. The head, some of the vertebrae of the neck and one or two bones of the fore limbs are missing. By comparison of the femurs of both skeletons we have proved that the animals were of the same size. We will be able to combine both and then will have a fossil skeleton complete, except the head and seven of the vertebrae. The most recent discovery in our quarries was a small head of a dinosaur. Unfortunately it belongs to an animal much smaller than those whose skeletons we have just found.

"The head is interesting on account of its small proportions. It is barely 18 inches long and a foot wide. When you remember that the body to which it belonged was 50 feet long, at least, and almost as high, you get an idea of the snakelike smallness of the head. The problem that it presents is how did the animal get its food in sufficient quantities to support such an immense frame? No animal that chewed its food could possibly nourish itself with such a small mouth. The few teeth and the unworn condition of them prove that the animal did not chew. It is probable that it lived on extremely soft and nourishing water plants which it rooted out with its spadelike head and swallowed whole.

"Our quarries in Aurora have furnished an immense number of specimens, not only of the dinosaurs, but also of antediluvian turtles and alligators. We find that the particular district in which we are working now is becoming exhausted, and part of the work which I outlined for our men for the rest of the season is in the nature of prospecting. The whole of Wyoming, we are convinced, is rich in just such relics as we are seeking, but we must hunt for them, just as a miner hunts for metal. The animals, which are chiefly water dinosaurs, when they died were preyed upon by carnivorous dinosaurs. These latter scattered the bones of their prey, and often the water that flowed over the carcass and eventually formed the rock formation around it further disturbed the bones. So, you see, fossil remains occur in veins and leads. Having once found a rib of a vertebra, we follow up the vein, just as a gold miner would.

"Our campaign has in view obtaining a complete fossil selection and mounting it. The most careful work in extracting the bones is necessary. We have inaugurated a new system in our work, which results in our getting more perfect bones than it has ever before been possible to obtain. We quarry the fossil that we find in the block of stone, and instead of attempting with the necessarily rough tools we have on the spot to take away the sandstone from the petrified bone, we ship the whole piece in a cheap cast of plaster, to preserve it, to the museum at New York, where we have experienced workmen who can get the bone out of its stone sheath with as little damage as possible. This process makes our skeletons the most perfect in the world. In Wyoming we have six extremely skilled workmen.

"In the party that spent the summer at the quarries this year were Walter Granger, second assistant in the department of vertebrate paleontology; Dr. W. D. Matthew, also an assistant, and myself, who is a director of the department of vertebrate paleontology. All this western country," went on Professor Osborne, "is full of the most valuable fossil remains. The Rocky mountains, you know, are comparatively young, and rose out of the Jurassic sea, at the edge of which we find our dinosaurs. There is scarcely enough interest shown in the subject among the people of this state. Were we to be informed by people who know of the existence of fossils; the place where such are to be found, many valuable discoveries might be made. But, unfortunately, people pass such things by and do not give a second thought to the contribution to science they might assist in making. Many a farming lad could give scientists hints that would lead to precious discoveries."

REMEMBERED THEIR DEAD.

President and Mrs. McKinley Placed Flowers on Graves—Congratulations on Pittsburg Speech.

CANTON, O., Sept. 1.—The president, with Mrs. McKinley, her sister and niece, drove to Westlawn cemetery, where he visited the graves of the family, covering them with flowers. Many letters and telegrams awaited him here, congratulating him on his Pittsburg address.

There are several county society meetings in progress here and delegates were among the callers at the house. The president went to a pure food show at the Tabernacle for a few minutes in response to an urgent invitation from the Episcopal church, which is managing the entertainment. Mrs. McKinley also patronized the pure food show, by liberally responding to a request for flowers from the White House conservatory.

President McKinley was accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou and others. The size of the crowd had almost blockaded the show when he arrived, and someone proposed that he go through a rear entrance opening upon the stage, from where the view was comparatively clear, but this he declined to do, saying he would attend just as other people did. Guards made a way and the party passed up and down the aisles, inspecting and admiring the displays.

There was vociferous cheering by the crowd as he entered, which was drowned out by the playing of "Hail to the Chief" by a brass band.

REPLY TO OHIO DEMOCRATS.

London Paper Insists There Will Never Be Anglo-American Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Commenting on the paragraph adopted at the Ohio state Democratic convention denouncing "the secret and vicious alliance now in evidence between England and the Republican administration," The Globe said that no such alliance is ever likely to come to pass. The paper belittles the effect of such an utterance upon the Americans and says:

"The more radical friendship which has latterly grown up between the great English-speaking nations has struck too deep roots on both sides of the Atlantic to be blown away by a puff of electioneering wind."

ANOTHER CONFERENCE WANTED.

Condition of the Negotiations Between England and Transvaal.

PRETORIA, Sept. 1.—The Transvaal's note to Great Britain, offering the five-year franchise and the other concessions, was strongly worded and explained that the concessions were made with a sincere desire fully to settle all differences, to put an end to strained relations and avert a disastrous war.

The note of Mr. Conyngham Greene in reply was conciliatory and tantamount to an acceptance of the five-year offer. It agreed to waive the suggested commission of inquiry, provided a representative, to be appointed by Sir Alfred Milner, should be given facilities in Pretoria to make an investigation of the franchise question and provided the report of such representative should prove satisfactory. Otherwise the Transvaal government was requested to await further suggestions from the imperial government before submitting new proposals to the volksraad. Mr. Greene's note in conclusion suggested a further conference at Cape Town.

More Volunteers Were Landed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The 1,388 officers and men of the Idaho, First North Dakota and First Wyoming regiments of volunteer infantry and a battalion of the Wyoming light artillery arrived from Manila, disembarked from the transport Grant and marched to the Presidio, where they will remain in camp until mustered out. The reception accorded the returning volunteers was a most hearty one.

Billiard Player Ives Dead.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—A telegram received by Dr. J. D. Peters, father-in-law of Frank Ives, the champion billiard player, announces the latter's death, which occurred at Progresso, Mexico. Consumption was the cause of death. Ives' remains will be brought to Plainwell, Mich., at which place he was born in 1866.

Killed His Father-In-Law.

NEWARK, O., Sept. 1.—Jacob Kellar shot and killed his father-in-law, Henry Hobart, north of Newark. Kellar and Hobart had been hostile for several years over family troubles. Hobart went to Kellar's residence and shot him twice. Kellar is still living. Kellar ran into the house, grabbed a pistol and shot Hobart dead.

The Old Man's Retort.

"You don't have any ruins in this blawsted country," said the British seion to his future father-in-law. "No," said the old man, "we don't. And you won't have any left in England if your noble army of titled paupers can marry enough rich Yankee girls to put new roofs on your old castles."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Way of Getting It.

Wife (earnestly)—George, dear, I have prayed so fervently of late for a tailor made gown that I feel it would be flying in the face of Providence not to go and get measured at once.—Brooklyn Life.

Dreyfus.

[By Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe and Other Poems."] A man stood stained. France was one Alp of hate, Pressing upon him with the whole world's weight. In all the circle of the ancient sun There was no voice to speak for him—not one. In all the world of men there was no sound But of a sword flung broken to the ground.

Hell laughed its little hour, and then, behold, How one by one the guarded gates unfold! Swiftly a sword by unseen forces hurled * * * And now a man rising against the world!

Oh, import deep as life is, deep as time! There is a something sacred and sublime Moving behind the worlds, beyond our ken, Weighing the stars, weighing the deeds of men.

Take heart, O soul of sorrow, and be strong! There is one greater than the whole world's wrong. Be hushed before the high, benignant power That moves wool shed through sepulcher and tower!

No truth so low but he will give it crown; No wrong so high but he will hurl it down. Oh, men that forge the fetter, it is vain; There is a still hand stronger than your chain!

'Tis no avail to bargain, sneer and nod And shrug the shoulder for reply to God. —Published from McClure's Magazine For September by Permission of the S. S. McClure Company.

FUTURE DEAN OF DIPLOMATS

Baron Fava Will Be Head of the Embassadorial Corps.

The dispatches from Rome announcing that Baron Fava has sailed for America are very interesting to Washington society. The announcement is rather unexpected, too, for when the baron left the United States two years ago it was understood that he would not return in an official capacity. Baron Fava desired to retire from the diplomatic corps upon the usual pension given by grateful countries to ambassadors. The Italian government for some reason declined to pension him, but decided that he might remain upon the rolls as ambassador to the United States indefinitely.

The reason of his sudden determination to return to his long deserted post at Washington is that the retirement of Lord Pauncefoot in the early future will make Baron Fava the dean of the embassadorial corps in Washington, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. It is on this account that the report of his return is peculiarly interesting to society. The Italian envoy is of a thrifty turn of mind. His manner of conducting his embassy is on the plan recommended by the great Franklin, to look after the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. At one time the baron, while ambassador, located his domicile over a prosperous barber establishment. His quarters are at all times modest to say the least. On one occasion, having to entertain some visitors from his home country whose claims could not be ignored, the careful baron took quarters at the Arlington during their stay and by a liberal use of its parlors lent grace to his extraordinary burst of hospitality.

The Italians in Washington are far from being pleased with the mode of life followed by the amiable baron. As a successor of the hospitable, if formal, Lord Pauncefoot as dean of the diplomatic corps, all Washington society is full of interest as to his programme for the winter. Baron Fava has no family, his only son having died here about four years ago. The baroness is a charming woman, very popular in social circles.

Ohio Organizations to Go.

TOLEDO, Sept. 1.—Colonel W. V. McMackin of the Sixth Ohio volunteers received a letter from Governor Bushnell, stating that it is proposed to take all Ohio military organizations to New York to attend the Dewey celebration. Governor Bushnell stated that railroad rates would determine to some extent the number of men to be sent.

Some Negroes Surrendered.

DARIEN, Ga., Sept. 1.—The negro rioters concerned in the Delagel affair were surrendering daily in small squads. The military posse was searching the swamps for them and had come across several small parties who were trying to evade the law. Judge Seabrooke convened court. Soldiers armed patrolled the streets for blocks.

Boy Who Hazed Grant Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—On the recommendation of the superintendent of the military academy the president has directed the summary dismissal from the service of the United States of Cadet Philip F. Smith of the third class "for harassing and annoying a fourth class man." The man hazed was Ulysses S. Grant.

G. A. R. AT PHILADELPHIA.

Low Rates For Everybody via Pennsylvania Lines.

The sale of low rate excursion tickets to Philadelphia for the G. A. R. National encampment will commence Friday, Sept. 1, over Pennsylvania lines. For four days, Sept. 1, 2, 3, and 4, reduced rate tickets may be purchased over this route.

The advantages of traveling over America's standard railway system may be enjoyed by everybody who may wish to get the benefit of the low fare. In addition to special advantages in directness, solid roadbed, comfortable cars, etc., the Pennsylvania route offers:

- No change of cars.
- Daylight arrival at Philadelphia.
- Tickets via Washington.
- Stop-over at National Capital.
- Tickets going one route, returning another.

Extension of limit on tickets, and every concession authorized for the encampment. For particulars apply to nearest ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines.

Vacation Trips.

The Pennsylvania lines extend direct to places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic Ocean. Atlantic City, Cape May, Asbury Park Long Branch and resorts on the New Jersey coast are seashore terminals of the Pennsylvania system. Newport, Narragansett and summer havens in New England are reached over the Pennsylvania route via New York. The Adirondacks, White Mountains, Catskills and mountain retreats of the east are also reached through New York. Resorts in the Alleghenies are located upon the Pennsylvania route and may be reached via Pittsburg without changing car. The Pennsylvania lines also lead to resorts in Michigan and the lake region through three gateways: Cleveland, Toledo and Fort Wayne. Full information about rates, through time of trains and the convenient manner in which summer resorts may be reached will be cheerfully furnished upon application to local passenger and ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines, or by addressing J. K. Dillon, D. P. Agt., Pittsburg Pa.

New Sunday Trains.

Under new schedule taking effect on Pennsylvania lines, C. & P. division, Sunday, July 23, a new train will be run regularly on Sundays between Pittsburg, East Liverpool, Steubenville and Bellaire. The train will leave Pittsburg union station 7:10 a. m., central time, arrive East Liverpool 9:02 a. m., Steubenville 10:06 a. m., Bellaire 11:15 a. m., central time; returning leave Bellaire 1 p. m., East Liverpool 3:07 p. m.

FINE JOB WORK. The NEWS REVIEW job rooms are the best equipped in eastern Ohio, and we are consequently able to turn out large quantities of work on short notice.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

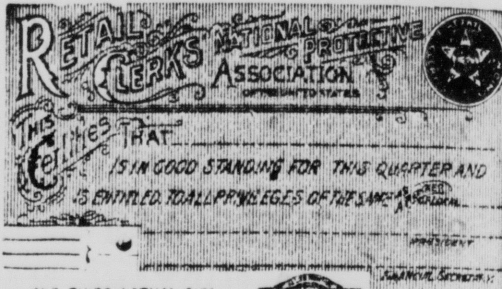

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER. (Used only during months named in lower left hand corner, and properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the local.)

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trademark which is found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailor's Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

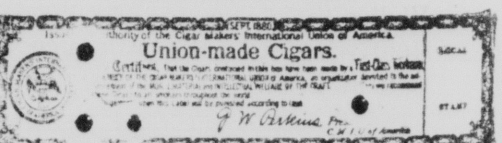

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

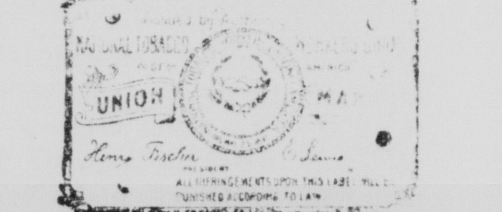

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

TOBACCO LABEL.

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

PREHISTORIC FOSSILS.

Some Interesting Discoveries Recently Made In Wyoming.

HOW THEY WERE UNEARTHED.

New System Inaugurated In Quarrying the Fossils and In Extracting the Bones With as Little Damage as Possible—Many Valuable Skeletons Have Been Discovered.

Professor Henry F. Osborne, in charge of the geological department of Columbia university and connected with the American Museum of Natural History in New York, arrived in Denver recently from the fossil fields at Aurora, Wyo. Professor Osborne is in charge of the work at that place which is being carried on under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History, says the Denver Republican.

"This is our eighth season at the work," he said the other afternoon, "and it has been our best. We have discovered many valuable skeletons and a large quantity of miscellaneous bones. We are in search chiefly of dinosaur fossil remains, and the quarries in which we have been working have proved rich in just the specimens that we sought. Two years ago we began work in digging out a large skeleton, which turned out to be half complete. It was about 70 feet long. This year we have completed the excavation of a skeleton which lacks but little of being absolutely perfect. The head, some of the vertebrae of the neck and one or two bones of the fore limbs are missing. By comparison of the femurs of both skeletons we have proved that the animals were of the same size. We will be able to combine both and then will have a fossil skeleton complete, except the head and seven of the vertebrae. The most recent discovery in our quarries was a small head of a dinosaur. Unfortunately it belongs to an animal much smaller than those whose skeletons we have just found.

"The head is interesting on account of its small proportions. It is barely 18 inches long and a foot wide. When you remember that the body to which it belonged was 50 feet long, at least, and almost as high, you get an idea of the snakelike smallness of the head. The problem that it presents is how did the animal get its food in sufficient quantities to support such an immense frame? No animal that chewed its food could possibly nourish itself with such a small mouth. The few teeth and the unwork condition of them prove that the animal did not chew. It is probable that it lived on extremely soft and nourishing water plants which it rooted out with its spadelike head and swallowed whole.

"Our quarries in Aurora have furnished an immense number of specimens, not only of the dinosaurs, but also of antediluvian turtles and alligators. We find that the particular district in which we are working now is becoming exhausted, and part of the work which I outlined for our men for the rest of the season is in the nature of prospecting. The whole of Wyoming, we are convinced, is rich in just such relics as we are seeking, but we must hunt for them, just as a miner hunts for metal. The animals, which are chiefly water dinosaurs, when they died were preyed upon by carnivorous dinosaurs. These latter scattered the bones of their prey, and often the water that flowed over the carcass and eventually formed the rock formation around it further disturbed the bones. So, you see, fossil remains occur in veins and leads. Having once found a vein or a vertebra, we follow up the vein, just as a gold miner would.

"Our campaign has in view obtaining a complete fossil selection and mounting it. The most careful work in extracting the bones is necessary. We have inaugurated a new system in our work, which results in our getting more perfect bones than it has ever before been possible to obtain. We quarry the fossil that we find in the block of stone, and instead of attempting with the necessarily rough tools we have on the spot to take away the sandstone from the petrified bone, we ship the whole piece in a cheap east of plaster, to preserve it, to the museum at New York, where we have experienced workmen who can get the bone out of its stone sheath with as little damage as possible. This process makes our skeletons the most perfect in the world. In Wyoming we have six extremely skilled workmen.

"In the party that spent the summer at the quarries this year were Walter Granger, second assistant in the department of vertebrate paleontology; Dr. W. D. Matthews, also an assistant, and myself, who is a director of the department of vertebrate paleontology. All this western country," went on Professor Osborne, "is full of the most valuable fossil remains. The Rocky mountains, you know, are comparatively young, and rose out of the Jurassic sea, at the edge of which we find our dinosaurs. There is scarcely enough interest shown in the subject among the people of this state. We were to be informed by people who know of the existence of fossils; the place where such are to be found, many valuable discoveries might be made. But, unfortunately, people pass such things by and do not give a second thought to the contribution to science they might assist in making. Many a farming lad could give scientists hints that would lead to precious discoveries."

REMEMBERED THEIR DEAD.

President and Mrs. McKinley Placed Flowers on Graves—Congratulations on Pittsburgh Speech.

CANTON, O., Sept. 1.—The president, with Mrs. McKinley, her sister and niece, drove to Westlawn cemetery, where he visited the graves of the family, covering them with flowers. Many letters and telegrams awaited him here, congratulating him on his Pittsburgh address.

There are several county society meetings in progress here and delegates were among the callers at the house. The president went to a pure food show at the Tabernacle for a few minutes in response to an urgent invitation from the Episcopal church, which is managing the entertainment. Mrs. McKinley also patronized the pure food show, by liberally responding to a request for flowers from the White House conservatory.

President McKinley was accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou and others. The size of the crowd had almost blocked the show when he arrived, and someone proposed that he go through a rear entrance opening upon the stage, from where the view was comparatively clear, but this he declined to do, saying he would attend just as other people did. Guards made a way and the party passed up and down the aisles, inspecting and admiring the displays.

There was vociferous cheering by the crowd as he entered, which was drowned out by the playing of "Hail to the Chief" by a brass band.

REPLY TO OHIO DEMOCRATS.

London Paper Insists There Will Never Be Anglo-American Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Commenting on the paragraph adopted at the Ohio state Democratic convention denouncing "the secret and vicious alliance now in evidence between England and the Republican administration," The Globe said that no such alliance is ever likely to come to pass. The paper belittles the effect of such an utterance upon the Americans and says:

"The more radical friendship which has latterly grown up between the great English-speaking nations has struck too deep roots on both sides of the Atlantic to be blown away by a puff of electioneering wind."

ANOTHER CONFERENCE WANTED.

Condition of the Negotiations Between England and Transvaal.

PRETORIA, Sept. 1.—The Transvaal's note to Great Britain, offering the five-year franchise and the other concessions, was strongly worded and explained that the concessions were made with a sincere desire fully to settle all differences, to put an end to strained relations and avert a disastrous war.

The note of Mr. Conyngham Greene in reply was conciliatory and tantamount to an acceptance of the five-year offer. It agreed to waive the suggested commission of inquiry, provided a representative, to be appointed by Sir Alfred Milner, should be given facilities in Pretoria to make an investigation of the franchise question and provided the report of such representative should prove satisfactory. Otherwise the Transvaal government was requested to await further suggestions from the imperial government before submitting new proposals to the volksraad. Mr. Greene's note in conclusion suggested a further conference at Cape Town.

More Volunteers Were Landed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The 1,388 officers and men of the Idaho, First North Dakota and First Wyoming regiments of volunteer infantry and a battalion of the Wyoming light artillery arrived from Manila, disembarked from the transport Grant and marched to the Presidio, where they will remain in camp until mustered out. The reception accorded the returning volunteers was a most hearty one.

Billiard Player Ives Dead.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—A telegram received by Dr. J. D. Peters, father-in-law of Frank Ives, the champion billiard player, announces the latter's death, which occurred at Progresso, Mexico. Consumption was the cause of death. Ives' remains will be brought to Plainwell, Mich., at which place he was born in 1856.

Killed His Father-in-Law.

NEWARK, O., Sept. 1.—Jacob Kellar shot and killed his father-in-law, Henry Hobart, north of Newark. Kellar and Hobart had been hostile for several years over family troubles. Hobart went to Kellar's residence and shot him twice. Kellar is still living. Kellar ran into the house, grabbed a pistol and shot Hobart dead.

The Old Man's Retort.

"You don't have any ruins in this blawsted country," said the British scion to his future father-in-law. "No," said the old man, "we don't. And you won't have any left in England if your noble army of titled paupers can marry enough rich Yankee girls to put new roofs on your old castles."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Way of Getting It.

Wife (earnestly)—George, dear, I have prayed so fervently of late for a tailor made gown that I feel it would be flying in the face of Providence not to go and get measured at once.—Brooklyn Life.

Dreyfus.

[By Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe and Other Poems."] A man stood stained. France was one Alp of hate, Pressing upon him with the whole world's weight In all the circle of the ancient sun. There was no voice to speak for him—not one. In all the world of men there was no sound But of a sword hung broken to the ground.

Hell laughed its little hour, and then, behold, How one by one the guarded gates unfold! Swiftly a sword by unseen forces hurled! And now a man rising against the world!

Oh, import deep as life is, deep as time! There is a something sacred and sublime Moving behind the worlds, beyond our ken, Weighing the stars, weighing the deeds of men.

Take heart, O soul of sorrow, and be strong! There is one greater than the whole world's wrong.

Be hushed before the high, benignant power That moves wool shod through sepulcher and tower!

No truth so low but he will give it crown; No wrong so high but he will hurl it down. Oh, men that forge the fetter, it is vain; There is a still hand stronger than your chain!

'Tis no avail to bargain, sneer and nod And shrug the shoulder for reply to God.

FUTURE DEAN OF DIPLOMATS

Baron Fava Will Be Head of the Embassadorial Corps.

The dispatches from Rome announcing that Baron Fava has sailed for America are very interesting to Washington society. The announcement is rather unexpected, too, for when the baron left the United States two years ago it was understood that he would not return in an official capacity. Baron Fava desired to retire from the diplomatic corps upon the usual pension given by grateful countries to ambassadors. The Italian government for some reason declined to pension him, but decided that he might remain upon the rolls as ambassador to the United States indefinitely.

The reason of his sudden determination to return to his long deserted post at Washington is that the retirement of Lord Pauncefote in the early future will make Baron Fava the dean of the embassadorial corps in Washington, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. It is on this account that the report of his return is peculiarly interesting to society. The Italian envoy is of a thrifty turn of mind. His manner of conducting his embassy is on the plan recommended by the great Franklin, to look after the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. At one time the baron, while ambassador, located his domicile over a prosperous barber establishment. His quarters are at all times modest to say the least. On one occasion, having to entertain some visitors from his home country whose claims could not be ignored, the careful baron took quarters at the Arlington during their stay and by a liberal use of its parlors lent grace to his extraordinary burst of hospitality.

The Italians in Washington are far from being pleased with the mode of life followed by the amiable baron. As a successor of the hospitable, if formal, Lord Pauncefote as dean of the diplomatic corps, all Washington society is full of interest as to his programme for the winter. Baron Fava has no family, his only son having died here about four years ago. The baroness is a charming woman, very popular in social circles.

Ohio Organizations to Go.

TOLEDO, Sept. 1.—Colonel W. V. McMackin of the Sixth Ohio volunteers received a letter from Governor Bushnell, stating that it is proposed to take all Ohio military organizations to New York to attend the Dewey celebration. Governor Bushnell stated that railroad rates would determine to some extent the number of men to be sent.

Some Negroes Surrendered.

DARIEN, Ga., Sept. 1.—The negro rioters concerned in the Delagel affair were surrendering daily in small squads. The military posse was searching the swamps for them and had come across several small parties who were trying to evade the law. Judge Seabrooke convened court. Soldiers armed patrolled the streets for blockers.

Boy Who Hazed Grant Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—On the recommendation of the superintendent of the military academy the president has directed the summary dismissal from the service of the United States of Cadet Philip F. Smith of the third class "for harrassing and annoying a fourth class man." The man hazed was Ulysses S. Grant.

PREHISTORIC FOSSILS.

Some Interesting Discoveries Recently Made In Wyoming.

HOW THEY WERE UNEARTHED.

New System Inaugurated In Quarrying the Fossils and In Extracting the Bones With as Little Damage as Possible—Many Valuable Skeletons Have Been Discovered.

Professor Henry F. The size of the crowd had almost blocked the show when he arrived, and someone proposed that he go through a rear entrance opening upon the stage, from where the view was comparatively clear, but this he declined to do, saying he would attend just as other people did. Guards made a way and the party passed up and down the aisles, inspecting and admiring the displays.

There was vociferous cheering by the crowd as he entered, which was drowned out by the playing of "Hail to the Chief" by a brass band.

REPLY TO OHIO DEMOCRATS.

London Paper Insists There Will Never Be Anglo-American Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Commenting on the paragraph adopted at the Ohio state Democratic convention denouncing "the secret and vicious alliance now in evidence between England and the Republican administration," The Globe said that no such alliance is ever likely to come to pass. The paper belittles the effect of such an utterance upon the Americans and says:

"The more radical friendship which has latterly grown up between the great English-speaking nations has struck too deep roots on both sides of the Atlantic to be blown away by a puff of electioneering wind."

ANOTHER CONFERENCE WANTED.

Condition of the Negotiations Between England and Transvaal.

PRETORIA, Sept. 1.—The Transvaal's note to Great Britain, offering the five-year franchise and the other concessions, was strongly worded and explained that the concessions were made with a sincere desire fully to settle all differences, to put an end to strained relations and avert a disastrous war.

The note of Mr. Conyngham Greene in reply was conciliatory and tantamount to an acceptance of the five-year offer. It agreed to waive the suggested commission of inquiry, provided a representative, to be appointed by Sir Alfred Milner, should be given facilities in Pretoria to make an investigation of the franchise question and provided the report of such representative should prove satisfactory. Otherwise the Transvaal government was requested to await further suggestions from the imperial government before submitting new proposals to the volksraad. Mr. Greene's note in conclusion suggested a further conference at Cape Town.

More Volunteers Were Landed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The 1,388 officers and men of the Idaho, First North Dakota and First Wyoming regiments of volunteer infantry and a battalion of the Wyoming light artillery arrived from Manila, disembarked from the transport Grant and marched to the Presidio, where they will remain in camp until mustered out. The reception accorded the returning volunteers was a most hearty one.

Billiard Player Ives Dead.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—A telegram received by Dr. J. D. Peters, father-in-law of Frank Ives, the champion billiard player, announces the latter's death, which occurred at Progresso, Mexico. Consumption was the cause of death. Ives' remains will be brought to Plainwell, Mich., at which place he was born in 1866.

Killed His Father-In-Law.

NEWARK, O., Sept. 1.—Jacob Kellar shot and killed his father-in-law, Henry Hobart, north of Newark. Kellar and Hobart had been hostile for several years over family troubles. Hobart went to Kellar's residence and shot him twice. Kellar is still living. Kellar ran into the house, grabbed a pistol and shot Hobart dead.

The Old Man's Retort.

"You don't have any ruins in this blawsted country," said the British seion to his future father-in-law.

Dreyfus.

[By Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe and Other Poems."] A man stood stained. France was one Alp of hate, Pressing upon him with the whole world's weight In all the circle of the ancient sun There was no voice to speak for him—not one. In all the world of men there was no sound But of a sword flung broken to the ground.

Hell laughed its little hour, and then, behold, How one by one the guarded gates unfold! Swiftly a sword by unseen forces hurled . . . And now a man rising against the world!

Oh, import deep as life is, deep as time! There is a something sacred and sublime Moving behind the worlds, beyond our ken, Weighing the stars, weighing the deeds of men.

Take heart, O soul of sorrow, and be strong! There is one greater than the whole world's wrong.

Be hushed before the high, benignant power That moves wool shod through sepulcher and tower!

No truth so low but he will give it crown; No wrong so high but he will hurl it down.

Oh, men that forge the fetter, it is vain; There is a still hand stronger than your chain! 'Tis no avail to bargain, sneer and nod.

And shrug the shoulder for reply to God. —Published by McClure's Magazine For September by Permission of the S. S. McClure Company.

FUTURE DEAN OF DIPLOMATS

Baron Fava Will Be Head of the Embassadorial Corps.

The dispatches from Rome announce that Baron Fava has sailed for America are very interesting to Washington society. The announcement is rather unexpected, too, for when the baron left the United States two years ago it was understood that he would not return in an official capacity. Baron Fava desired to retire from the diplomatic corps upon the usual pension given by grateful countries to ambassadors. The Italian government for some reason declined to pension him, but decided that he might remain upon the rolls as ambassador to the United States indefinitely.

The reason of his sudden determination to return to his long deserted post at Washington is that the retirement of Lord Pauncefoot in the early future will make Baron Fava the dean of the embassadorial corps in Washington, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. It is on this account that the report of his return is peculiarly interesting to society. The Italian envoy is of a thrifty turn of mind. His manner of conducting his embassy is on the plan recommended by the great Franklin, to look after the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. At one time the baron, while ambassador, located his domicile over a prosperous barber establishment. His quarters are at all times modest to say the least. On one occasion, having to entertain some visitors from his home country whose claims could not be ignored, the careful baron took quarters at the Arlington during their stay and by a liberal use of its parlors lent grace to his extraordinary burst of hospitality.

The Italians in Washington are far from being pleased with the mode of life followed by the amiable baron. As a successor of the hospitable, if formal, Lord Pauncefoot as dean of the diplomatic corps, all Washington society is full of interest as to his programme for the winter. Baron Fava has no family, his only son having died here about four years ago. The baroness is a charming woman, very popular in social circles.

Ohio Organizations to Go.

TOLEDO, Sept. 1.—Colonel W. V. McMakin of the Sixth Ohio volunteers received a letter from Governor Bushnell, stating that it is proposed to take and Ohio military organizations to New York to attend the Dewey celebration. Governor Bushnell stated that railroad rates would determine to some extent the number of men to be sent.

Some Negroes Surrendered.

DARIEN, Ga., Sept. 1.—The negro rioters concerned in the Delagel affair were surrendering daily in small squads. The military posse was searching the swamps for them and had come across several small parties who were trying to evade the law. Judge Seabrooke convened court. Soldiers armed patrolled the streets for blocks.

Boy Who Hazed Grant Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—On the recommendation of the superintendent of the military academy the president has directed the summary dismissal from the service of the United States of Cadet Philip F. Smith of the third class "for harrassing and annoying a fourth class man." The man hazed was Ulysses S. Grant.

Bicycle Trust Completed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The American Bicycle company completed its permanent organization. Albert G. Spalding is president.

G. A. R. AT PHILADELPHIA.

Low Rates For Everybody via Pennsylvania Lines.

The sale of low rate excursion tickets to Philadelphia for the G. A. R. National encampment will commence Friday, Sept. 1, over Pennsylvania lines. For four days, Sept. 1, 2, 3, and 4, reduced rate tickets may be purchased over this route.

The advantages of traveling over America's standard railway system may be enjoyed by everybody who may wish to get the benefit of the low fare. In addition to special advantages in directness, solid roadbed, comfortable cars, etc., the Pennsylvania route offers:

No change of cars.

Daylight arrival at Philadelphia.

Tickets via Washington.

Stop-over at National Capital.

Tickets going one route, returning another.

Extension of limit on tickets, and every concession authorized for the encampment. For particulars apply to nearest ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines.

Vacation Trips.

The Pennsylvania lines extend direct to places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic Ocean. Atlantic City, Cape May, Asbury Park Long Branch and resorts on the New Jersey coast are seashore terminals of the Pennsylvania system. Newport, Narragansett and summer havens in New England are reached over the Pennsylvania route via New York. The Adirondacks, White Mountains, Catskills and mountain retreats of the east are also reached through New York. Resorts in the Alleghenies are located upon the Pennsylvania route and may be reached via Pittsburgh without changing car. The Pennsylvania lines also lead to resorts in Michigan and the lake region through three gateways: Cleveland, Toledo and Fort Wayne. Full information about rates, through time of trains and the convenient manner in which summer resorts may be reached will be cheerfully furnished upon application to local passenger and ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines, or by addressing J. K. Dillon, D. P. Agt., Pittsburg Pa.

New Sunday Trains.

Under new schedule taking effect on Pennsylvania lines, C. & P. division, Sunday, July 23, a new train will be run regularly on Sundays between Pittsburg, East Liverpool, Steubenville and Bellaire. The train will leave Pittsburg union station 7:40 a. m., central time, arrive East Liverpool 9:02 a. m., Steubenville 10:06 a. m., Bellaire 11:15 a. m., central time; returning leave Bellaire 1 p. m., East Liverpool 3:07 p. m.

FINE JOB WORK. THE NEWS rooms are the best equipped in eastern Ohio, and we are consequently able to turn out large quantities of work on short notice.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

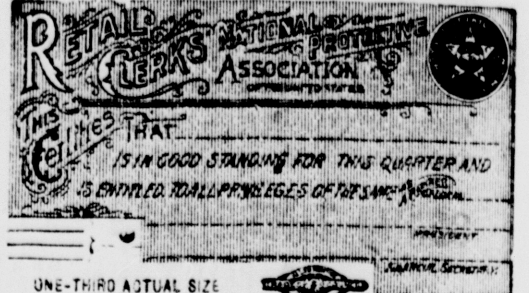

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card ask for it when making your purchases.

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' Union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

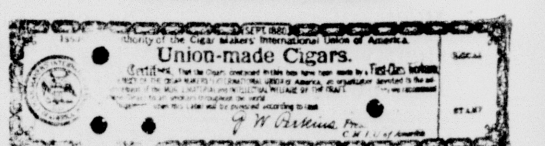

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold.

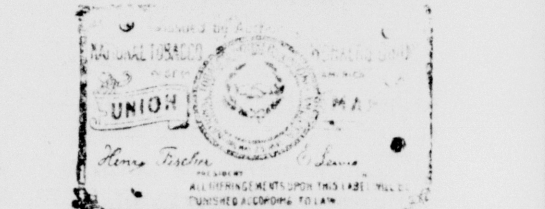

The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

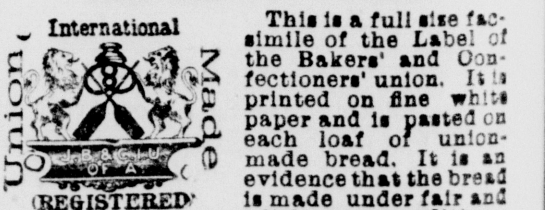

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

TOBACCO LABEL.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

NEW TREASURY NOTES.

Administration Will Soon Send
Out the Issue of 1899.

CURRENCY TO BE SIMPLIFIED

Greenbacks, Silver Certificates and Treasury Notes of Each Denomination to Have the Same General Appearance—Designs Proposed For Some of the Denominations.

An entire series of new notes is to be issued by the treasury department at Washington and called the issue of 1899. The new notes will replace the old ones of the denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $50, $100 and $500. While it has become customary for every administration to leave its imprint on the currency of the nation by making a new issue of notes, which custom is being adhered to by the present administration, it is intended in this case that the currency shall be greatly simplified by the issue of 1899, says the New York Sun.

Prior to this year each one of the three kinds of notes, legal tenders or greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury or coin notes, had a separate plate and design for each denomination. As a result for the denominations from $1 to $500 there were eight different notes for the greenbacks, eight for the silver certificates and eight for the treasury notes.

It is now proposed to simplify the currency by having but eight designs, one for each denomination, and differentiating between the silver certificate and the greenback, or between the green back and the treasury note, by the printing on the notes. All that the public is at present interested in is the denomination of the note. It wants to be sure that a note purporting to be a $5 note is really a $5 note and not one raised from a $1 note. With 24 different notes, or three for each denomination, the average man finds it very hard to remember the general appearance of a note of any one denomination, and thus it is skillfully raising the figures on a note it can be passed successfully for a note of higher denomination, as most persons are unfamiliar with the character of the notes of any specific denomination. And when these 24 notes are multiplied by the different administrations it gives a bewildering variety.

Secretary Gage therefore hopes by replacing the present issue by a new one, with only eight different forms of notes instead of 24, that the currency will be simplified to that extent and the people protected to a further degree against counterfeiters. One dollar notes of the new issue are being printed, and plates for the new $2 notes are being prepared. Designs for the new fives were submitted to the department the other day by the bureau of engraving and printing. At the department such designs are carefully examined, not only from a standpoint of beauty, but also from that of utility.

The question of the beauty of the design is decided by Secretary Gage and as to the desirability of the design by the secret service officials. Experts in the secret service give their opinions as to whether the proposed design is or is not easy to counterfeit, and changes are often made on their recommendation. Two designs for the $5 silver certificates were before the department a few days ago. One bearing the head of Hamilton was rejected. The design which will be taken bears the head of Washington, which, however, will be replaced by another portrait in the finished design, as the head of Washington has appeared on $1 notes so long that it has become identified with that denomination. Its presence on the new fives would also be an aid to the counterfeiters in raising $1 notes to fives.

In the new issue the engraving contains more open work than in any of the old notes. It was argued that there was no reason for the government to adopt a distinctive paper for its money and then to cover it with engraving to such an extent as to hide the character of the paper. The designs for the new notes will therefore be prepared so as to leave open spaces at each end of the note where the lines of silk thread in the paper can be seen distinctly. While this is not an absolute precaution against counterfeiting, it helps very materially to protect the public, for, although counterfeiters will take the risk of manufacturing this paper, they can only make very small quantities at a time, and the paper manufacturers will have nothing to do with it, as having such paper in one's possession, even though perfectly plain, makes the possessor liable to a sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

On the face of the new $5 note will appear a portrait, flanked on either side by an allegorical figure. To the right of the present design appears the figure of a man, nude but for the cloth about his loins, partly reclining and apparently engaged in reading a scroll. To the left is the figure of another man, also semireclining, with his right hand at his left side as though in the act of drawing a sword. This figure, which is supposed to represent an old frontiersman, shows a man naked to the waist and his legs clothed in deer skin trousers, fringed to the knee and bound with thongs from the knee to the foot. On his head is a coonskin cap. An incongruity lies in the fact that the old frontiersman is wearing a pair of Roman sandals, but this part of the design will probably be altered. The figures are supposed to typify the warrior and the student.

Under the picture will be printed the character of the note, silver certificate, legal tender, etc. In each of the upper corners is a figure 5 and in each of the lower corners a smaller figure 5, each one being surrounded with lathe work. To the right of the center the treasury's scalloped seal will appear and to the left a large V. The character of the notes of the new issues is to be told from the color of the seal, of the number and of the figure, V, X, L, etc.

In order to render the character of the notes easily distinguishable, the numbers, the seal and the Roman numerals, V, X, L, etc., will be printed in a different color for each class of notes. For instance, the silver certificates will have the number and seal in red, the treasury notes in blue and the greenbacks in brown or black. The colors have not been fixed as yet. By this means bank cashiers will be able to separate the notes rapidly into greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury notes without looking at the wording of the notes.

FUTURE OYSTER FISHING.

Submarine Boats Will Make the Business More Accessible.

The submarine boat will revolutionize the oyster industry. When in Chesapeake bay cruising, the old Argonaut frequently settled down on oyster beds and, with the permission of the owners, procured all the oysters desired by reaching down through the sea door. The new Argonaut can employ this method of gathering oysters, rising to the surface when her diving room is full, or send out divers, who can place the oysters collected in buckets or receptacles, which those on the surface can haul up. When bays and rivers are frozen over and oystermen cannot ply their trade, the Argonaut can go under the ice, says Lippincott's Magazine. Fishing can also be carried on easily on the bottom with nets, for the fish have no fear of the object they evidently consider a whale and swim from every direction toward the glare of the electric lights shining through the ports.

Sponge fishing will engage the attention of the first successful submarine voyagers. Good sponges are becoming dearer, for the supply in shallow water is running short. The divers cannot go deeper than 25 feet, and the sponges are found in deep water. To this deep water the Argonaut will go and gathering the finest sponges put them on the market at a price no greater than that paid for the common varieties. She will also try pearl fishing, now conducted at an enormous expense of life, for by a strange freak of nature pearl oysters are generally found in localities where bad weather prevails and hurricanes and typhoons are frequent. These the Argonaut, under water, need not fear, and her divers, instead of gathering up the oysters by the single handful, can gather them by the bushel.

He Needed a Shave.

He had been out so late the night before that he did not know at what hour he had come home. When he awoke, he was curious to learn just how "rocky" he looked. He accordingly reached out for the silver backed hand mirror that lay on the table beside his bed.

Instead of the mirror he got hold of the silver backed hairbrush. Not recognizing his mistake, he took the brush up and gazed at the bristles for a moment. Then he felt of the silver back and then stared back at the bristles.

"Good heavens," he murmured at last, "but I need a shave!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

WEALTH IN ITS TIMBER.

Lumbermen Attracted to the Philippine Archipelago.

SEVERAL MAY GO FROM THE WEST.

Prospect That American Capital Will Soon Be Employed in Developing the Timber Industry—Great Extent and Variety of Hard Woods in the Islands.

Many letters have been received in Manila from capitalists and lumbermen in the United States proving the interest taken in the timber wealth of the Philippines and showing that as soon as the insurrection is quelled and the new era begins in the islands the lumber industry will be among the first to be taken hold of, says the Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Several lumbermen from the western states have already written their intentions of coming to the Philippines, but it can hardly be expected that the trade can be opened on a large scale until grants can be secured to timber lands and workmen secured, both of which the war prevents, as it does the peaceable possession of land not occupied by United States troops.

Some lumbermen from Oregon who have been in Manila investigating the conditions of the industry are skeptical as to whether it will ever take rank with the other great industries of the island, such as the production of sugar, hemp and tobacco. They say that the scarcity of reliable labor and the tremendous cost of getting the timber to market will be likely to shut off any profits. But other experts claim that these men have overlooked the fact that the situation will be radically different in every branch of industry after the United States has taken full possession in the Philippines.

There will be a greater incentive for people to labor, as they will be sure of their wages and secure in their possession and free from heavy tax burdens. There will also be an immigration of reliable labor from the States, Australia and Europe. The heavy tax laid by the Spaniards on timber when it was brought into market and which is still collected by the United States will be removed. The heavy tariffs on mill machinery which are still assessed at the Manila custom house will be taken off or lightened by the next congress, which will have the revision of the customs duties at Manila. Railroads are sure to be built on the more important islands and through the best lumber districts of Luzon and will greatly cheapen the cost of bringing the lumber to market. Besides this the various woods of the Philippines, which are but little known in the United States or Europe, are bound after their wonderful properties are known to become vastly popular.

But even without the markets of the States or Europe a splendid market for the timber grown in the islands, especially the hard woods, will be found in the orient, Japan, China and the English colonies in the far east being capable of consuming a tremendous quantity of the timber products of the Philippines. The trade is little developed.

The present price of the hard woods in assorted lots, as is the custom in Manila, is 90 cents per cubic foot. The average price before the war was 50 cents. Sometimes, when certain varieties especially needed did not come in rapidly enough, its value rose rapidly, and frequently in the past cedar needed for cigar boxes was quoted at $2 or $3 per cubic foot. The average price of cedar was 70 cents per cubic foot. The transportation of squared logs from southern provinces to Manila costs 20 cents a cubic foot. Concessions were given free by the Spanish government to cut lumber on the crown lands, but duty had to be paid and is still paid before exporting the lumber. This duty is 11 cents per 100 kilos squared lumber, 55 cents per cubic meter for cut boards and 40 cents per 1,000 for staves.

There seems to be no limit to either the variety or the quantity of valuable timber in the islands. There are hundreds of islands in the Philippines with thousands of miles of virgin forest suitable for every purpose to which timber has ever been put. There are over 50 varieties of hard wood, almost every species of which is practically unknown in the United States. Among the costly woods are sapan wood, ebony and mahogany. Charles Graham has a collection of 130 species of woods collected during the Spanish regime. Some of these are as light as cork and others so heavy they sink like iron in water.

A bola knife taken from an insurgent by an American soldier is made of a heavy black wood that seems as hard as steel. Molave, which gives logs up to 35 feet long by 24 inches square, is one of the most valuable of the hard woods. It is equally impervious to water, insects and climate. In fact, it is said to be practically everlasting and is unsurpassed for such purposes as railroad ties and shipbuilding, for piers and wharfs.

Batitinan gives logs up to 40 feet and possesses the same qualities as teak, for which it would be an excellent substitute. Antipolo is another wood that defies the effects of water and climate and does not warp and is useful for vessels. Guijo is used for carriage shafts and wheels, ipil and mangachapay have the same good qualities as molave, except resistance to sea worms, and betis and araranga, that give logs up to 75 feet long, are especially used for wharfs and sea pilings, as they are proof against water and sea worms. Tindalo, supa and ale are strong, tenacious and durable, resist fire and take a high polish. They are used for house decorations and furniture. The principal trade has been in cedar, dinglas, batitinan, camagon, guio, narra, antipolo, molave, dungons, betis, malabonga, mangachapay, calantras, ipil, anagap, apiton and tindalo.

NEW TREASURY NOTES.

Administration Will Soon Send Out the Issue of 1899.

CURRENCY TO BE SIMPLIFIED

Greenbacks, Silver Certificates and Treasury Notes of Each Denomination to Have the Same General Appearance—Designs Proposed For some of the Denominations.

An entire series of new notes is to be issued by the treasury department at Washington and called the issue of 1899. The new notes will replace the old ones of the denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $50, $100 and $500. While it has become customary for every administration to leave its imprint on the currency of the nation by making a new issue of notes, which custom is being adhered to by the present administration, it is intended in this case that the currency shall be greatly simplified by the issue of 1899, says the New York Sun.

Prior to this year each one of the three kinds of notes, legal tenders or greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury or coin notes, had a separate plate and design for each denomination. As a result for the denominations from $1 to $500 there were eight different notes for the greenbacks, eight for the silver certificates and eight for the treasury notes.

It is now proposed to simplify the currency by having but eight designs, one for each denomination, and differentiating between the silver certificate and the greenback, or between the green back and the treasury note, by the printing on the notes. All that the public is at present interested in is the denomination of the note. It wants to be sure that a note purporting to be a $5 note is really a $5 note and not one raised from a $1 note. With 24 different notes, or three for each denomination, the average man finds it very hard to remember the general appearance of a note of any one denomination, and thus it is skillfully raising the figures on a note it can be passed successfully for a note of higher denomination, as most persons are unfamiliar with the character of the notes of any specific denomination. And when these 24 notes are multiplied by the different administrations it gives a bewildering variety.

Secretary Gage therefore hopes by replacing the present issue by a new one, with only eight different forms of notes instead of 24, that the currency will be simplified to that extent and the people protected to a further degree against counterfeiters. One dollar notes of the new issue are being printed, and plates for the new $2 notes are being prepared. Designs for the new fives were submitted to the department the other day by the bureau of engraving and printing. At the department such designs are carefully examined, not only from a standpoint of beauty, but also from that of utility.

The question of the beauty of the design is decided by Secretary Gage and as to the desirability of the design by the secret service officials. Experts in the secret service give their opinions as to whether the proposed design is or is not easy to counterfeit, and changes are often made on their recommendation. Two designs for the $5 silver certificates were before the department a few days ago. One bearing the head of Hamilton was rejected. The design which will be taken bears the head of Washington, which, however, will be replaced by another portrait in the finished design, as the head of Washington has appeared on $1 notes so long that it has become identified with that denomination. Its presence on the new fives would also be an aid to the counterfeiters in raising $1 notes to fives.

In the new issue the engraving contains more open work than in any of the old notes. It was argued that there was no reason for the government to adopt a distinctive paper for its money and then to cover it with engraving to such an extent as to hide the character of the paper. The designs for the new notes will therefore be prepared so as to leave open spaces at each end of the note where the lines of silk thread in the paper can be seen distinctly. While this is not an absolute precaution against counterfeiting, it helps very materially to protect the public, for, although counterfeiters will take the risk of manufacturing this paper, they can only make very small quantities at a time, and the paper manufacturers will have nothing to do with it, as having such paper in one's possession, even though perfectly plain, makes the possessor liable to a sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

On the face of the new $5 note will appear a portrait, flanked on either side by an allegorical figure. To the right of the present design appears the figure of a man, nude but for the cloth about his loins, partly reclining and apparently engaged in reading a scroll. To the left is the figure of another man, also semirecumbent, with his right hand at his left side as though in the act of drawing a sword. This figure, which is supposed to represent an old frontiersman, shows a man naked to the waist and his legs clothed in deerskin trousers, fringed to the knee and bound with thongs from the knee to the foot. On his head is a coonskin cap. An incongruity lies in the fact that the old frontiersman is wearing a pair of Roman sandals, but this part of the design will probably be altered. The figures are supposed to typify the warrior and the student.

Under the picture will be printed the character of the note, silver certificate, legal tender, etc. In each of the upper corners is a figure 5 and in each of the lower corners a smaller figure 5, each one being surrounded with lathe work. To the right of the center the treasury's scalloped seal will appear and to the left a large V. The character of the notes of the new issues is to be told from the color of the seal, of the number and of the figure, V, X, L, etc.

In order to render the character of the notes easily distinguishable, the numbers, the seal and the Roman numerals, V, X, L, etc., will be printed in a different color for each class of notes. For instance, the silver certificates will have the number and seal in red, the treasury notes in blue and the greenbacks in brown or black. The colors have not been fixed as yet. By this means bank cashiers will be able to separate the notes rapidly into greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury notes without looking at the wording of the notes.

FUTURE OYSTER FISHING.

Submarine Boats Will Make the Bivalve More Accessible.

The submarine boat will revolutionize the oyster industry. When in Chesapeake bay cruising, the old Argonaut frequently settled down on oyster beds and, with the permission of the owners, procured all the oysters desired by reaching down through the sea door. The new Argonaut can employ this method of gathering oysters, rising to the surface when her diving room is full, or send out divers, who can place the oysters collected in buckets or receptacles, which those on the surface can haul up. When bays and rivers are frozen over and oystermen cannot ply their trade, the Argonaut can go under the ice, says Lippincott's Magazine. Fishing can also be carried on easily on the bottom with nets, for the fish have no fear of the object they evidently consider a whale and swim from every direction toward the glare of the electric lights shining through the ports.

Sponge fishing will engage the attention of the first successful submarine voyagers. Good sponges are becoming dearer, for the supply in shallow water is running short. The divers cannot go deeper than 25 feet, and the sponges are found in deep water. To this deep water the Argonaut will go and gathering the finest sponges put them on the market at a price no greater than that paid for the common varieties. She will also try pearl fishing, now conducted at an enormous expense of life, for by a strange freak of nature pearl oysters are generally found in localities where bad weather prevails and hurricanes and typhoons are frequent. These the Argonaut, under water, need not fear, and her divers, instead of gathering up the oysters by the single handful, can gather them by the bushel.

He Needed a Shave.

He had been out so late the night before that he did not know at what hour he had come home. When he awoke, he was curious to learn just how "rocky" he looked. He accordingly reached out for the silver backed hand mirror that lay on the table beside his bed.

Instead of the mirror he got hold of the silver backed hairbrush. Not recognizing his mistake, he took the brush up and gazed at the bristles for a moment. Then he felt the silver back and then stared back at the bristles.

"Good heavens," he murmured at last, "but I need a shave!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

WEALTH IN ITS TIMBER.

Lumbermen Attracted to the Philippine Archipelago.

SEVERAL MAY GO FROM THE WEST.

Prospect That American Capital Will Soon Be Employed in Developing the Timber Industry—Great Extent and Variety of Hard Woods in the Islands.

Many letters have been received in Manila from capitalists and lumbermen in the United States proving the interest taken in the timber wealth of the Philippines and showing that as soon as the insurrection is quelled and the new era begins in the islands the lumber industry will be among the first to be taken hold of, says the Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Several lumbermen from the western states have already written their intentions of coming to the Philippines, but it can hardly be expected that the trade can be opened on a large scale until grants can be secured to timber lands and workmen secured, both of which the war prevents, as it does the peaceable possession of land not occupied by United States troops.

Some lumbermen from Oregon who have been in Manila investigating the conditions of the industry are skeptical as to whether it will ever take rank with the other great industries of the island, such as the production of sugar, hemp and tobacco. They say that the scarcity of reliable labor and the tremendous cost of getting the timber to market will be likely to shut off any profits. But other experts claim that these men have overlooked the fact that the situation will be radically different in every branch of industry after the United States has taken full possession in the Philippines.

There will be a greater incentive for people to labor, as they will be sure of their wages and secure in their possession and free from heavy tax burdens. There will also be an immigration of reliable labor from the States, Australia and Europe. The heavy tax laid by the Spaniards on timber when it was brought into market and which is still collected by the United States will be removed. The heavy tariffs on mill machinery which are still assessed at the Manila custom house will be taken off or lightened by the next congress, which will have the revision of the customs duties at Manila. Railroads are sure to be built on the more important islands and through the best lumber districts of Luzon and will greatly cheapen the cost of bringing the lumber to market. Besides this the various woods of the Philippines, which are but little known in the United States or Europe, are bound after their wonderful properties are known to become vastly popular.

But even without the markets of the States or Europe a splendid market for the timber grown in the islands, especially the hard woods, will be found in the orient, Japan, China and the English colonies in the far east being capable of consuming a tremendous quantity of the timber products of the Philippines. The trade is little developed.

The present price of the hard woods in assorted lots, as is the custom in Manila, is 90 cents per cubic foot. The average price before the war was 50 cents. Sometimes, when certain varieties especially needed did not come in rapidly enough, its value rose rapidly, and frequently in the past cedar needed for cigar boxes was quoted at $2 or $3 per cubic foot. The average price of cedar was 70 cents per cubic foot. The transportation of squared logs from southern provinces to Manila costs 20 cents a cubic foot. Concessions were given free by the Spanish government to cut lumber on the crown lands, but duty had to be paid and is still paid before exporting the lumber. This duty is 11 cents per 100 kilos squared lumber, 55 cents per cubic meter for cut boards and 40 cents per 1,000 for staves.

There seems to be no limit to either the variety or the quantity of valuable timber in the islands. There are hundreds of islands in the Philippines with thousands of miles of virgin forest suitable for every purpose to which timber has ever been put. There are over 50 varieties of hard wood, almost every species of which is practically unknown in the United States. Among the costly woods are sapan wood, ebony and mahogany. Charles Graham has a collection of 130 species of woods collected during the Spanish regime. Some of these are as light as cork and others so heavy they sink like iron in water.

A bola knife taken from an insurgent by an American soldier is made of a heavy black wood that seems as hard as steel. Molave, which gives logs up to 35 feet long by 24 inches square, is one of the most valuable of the hard woods. It is equally impervious to water, insects and climate. In fact, it is said to be practically everlasting and is unsurpassed for such purposes as railroad ties and shipbuilding, for piers and wharfs.

Battinan gives logs up to 40 feet and possesses the same qualities as teak, for which it would be an excellent substitute. Antipolo is another wood that defies the effects of water and climate and does not warp and is useful for vessels. Guijo is used for carriage shafts and wheels, ipil and mangachapay have the same good qualities as molave, except resistance to sea worms, and betis and araranga, that give logs up to 75 feet long, are especially used for wharfs and sea pilings, as they are proof against water and sea worms. Tindalo, supa and acle are strong, tenacious and durable, resist fire and take a high polish. They are used for house decorations and furniture. The principal trade has been in cedar, dinglas, batitanan, camagon, guio, narra, antipolo, molave, dungons, betis, malabonga, mangachapay, calantras, ipil, anagap, apiton and tindalo.

With 24 different notes, or three for each denomination, the average man finds it very hard to remember the general appearance of a note of any one denomination, and thus it is skillfully raising the figures on a note it can be passed successfully for a note of higher denomination, as most persons are unfamiliar with the character of the notes of any specific denomination. And when these 24 notes are multiplied by the different administrations it gives a bewildering variety.

Secretary Gage therefore hopes by replacing the present issue by a new one, with only eight different forms of notes instead of 24, that the currency will be simplified to that extent and the people protected to a further degree against counterfeiters. One dollar notes of the new issue are being printed, and plates for the new $2 notes are being prepared. Designs for the new fives were submitted to the department the other day by the bureau of engraving and printing. At the department such designs are carefully examined, not only from a standpoint of beauty, but also from that of utility.

The question of the beauty of the design is decided by Secretary Gage and as to the desirability of the design by the secret service officials. Experts in the secret service give their opinions as to whether the proposed design is or is not easy to counterfeit, and changes are often made on their recommendation. Two designs for the $5 silver certificates were before the department a few days ago. One bearing the head of Hamilton was rejected. The design which will be taken bears the head of Washington, which, however, will be replaced by another portrait in the finished design, as the head of Washington has appeared on $1 notes so long that it has become identified with that denomination. Its presence on the new fives would also be an aid to the counterfeiters in raising $1 notes to fives.

In the new issue the engraving contains more open work than in any of the old notes. It was argued that there was no reason for the government to adopt a distinctive paper for its money and then to cover it with engraving to such an extent as to hide the character of the paper. The designs for the new notes will therefore be prepared so as to leave open spaces at each end of the note where the lines of silk thread in the paper can be seen distinctly. While this is not an absolute precaution against counterfeiting, it helps very materially to protect the public, for, although counterfeiters will take the risk of manufacturing this paper, they can only make very small quantities at a time, and the paper manufacturers will have nothing to do with it, as having such paper in one's possession, even though perfectly plain, makes the possessor liable to a sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

On the face of the new $5 note will appear a portrait, flanked on either side by an allegorical figure. To the right of the present design appears the figure of a man, nude but for the cloth about his loins, partly reclining and apparently engaged in reading a scroll. To the left is the figure of another man, also semirecumbent, with his right hand at his left side as though in the act of drawing a sword. This figure, which is supposed to represent an old frontiersman, shows a man naked to the waist and his legs clothed in deerskin trousers, fringed to the knee and bound with thongs from the knee to the foot. On his head is a coonskin cap. An incongruity lies in the fact that the old frontiersman is wearing a pair of Roman sandals, but this part of the design will probably be altered. The figures are supposed to typify the warrior and the student.

Under the picture will be printed the character of the note, silver certificate, legal tender, etc. In each of the upper corners is a figure 5 and in each of the lower corners a smaller figure 5, each one being surrounded with lathe work. To the right of the center the treasury's scalloped seal will appear and to the left a large V. The character of the notes of the new issues is to be told from the color of the seal, of the number and of the figure, V, X, L, etc.

In order to render the character of the notes easily distinguishable, the numbers, the seal and the Roman numerals, V, X, L, etc., will be printed in a different color for each class of notes. For instance, the silver certificates will have the number and seal in red, the treasury notes in blue and the greenbacks in brown or black. The colors have not been fixed as yet. By this means bank cashiers will be able to separate the notes rapidly into greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury notes without looking at the wording of the notes.

FUTURE OYSTER FISHING.

Submarine Boats Will Make the Bivalve More Accessible.

The submarine boat will revolutionize the oyster industry. When in Chesapeake bay cruising, the old Argonaut frequently settled down on oyster beds and, with the permission of the owners, procured all the oysters desired by reaching down through the sea door. The new Argonaut can employ this method of gathering oysters, rising to the surface when her diving room is full, or send out divers, who can place the oysters collected in buckets or receptacles, which those on the surface can haul up. When bays and rivers are frozen over and oystermen cannot ply their trade, the Argonaut can go under the ice, says Lippincott's Magazine. Fishing can also be carried on easily on the bottom with nets, for the fish have no fear of the object they evidently consider a whale and swim from every direction toward the glare of the electric lights shining through the ports.

Sponge fishing will engage the attention of the first successful submarine voyagers. Good sponges are becoming dearer, for the supply in shallow water is running short. The divers cannot go deeper than 25 feet, and the sponges are found in deep water. To this deep water the Argonaut will go and gathering the finest sponges put them on the market at a price no greater than that paid for the common varieties. She will also try pearl fishing, now conducted at an enormous expense of life, for by a strange freak of nature pearl oysters are generally found in localities where bad weather prevails and hurricanes and typhoons are frequent. These the Argonaut, under water, need not fear, and her divers, instead of gathering up the oysters by the single handful, can gather them by the bushel.

He Needed a Shave.

He had been out so late the night before that he did not know at what hour he had come home. When he awoke, he was curious to learn just how "rocky" he looked. He accordingly reached out for the silver backed hand mirror that lay on the table beside his bed.

Instead of the mirror he got hold of the silver backed hairbrush. Not recognizing his mistake, he took the brush up and gazed at the bristles for a moment. Then he felt of the silver back and then stared back at the bristles.

"Good heavens," he murmured at last, "but I need a shave!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

WEALTH IN ITS TIMBER.

Lumbermen Attracted to the Philippine Archipelago.

SEVERAL MAY GO FROM THE WEST.

Prospect That American Capital Will Soon Be Employed in Developing the Timber Industry—Great Extent and Variety of Hard Woods in the Islands.

Many letters have been received in Manila from capitalists and lumbermen in the United States proving the interest taken in the timber wealth of the Philippines and showing that as soon as the insurrection is quelled and the new era begins in the islands the lumber industry will be among the first to be taken hold of, says the Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Several lumbermen from the western states have already written their intentions of coming to the Philippines, but it can hardly be expected that the trade can be opened on a large scale until grants can be secured to timber lands and workmen secured, both of which the war prevents, as it does the peaceable possession of land not occupied by United States troops.

Some lumbermen from Oregon who have been in Manila investigating the conditions of the industry are skeptical as to whether it will ever take rank with the other great industries of the island, such as the production of sugar, hemp and tobacco. They say that the scarcity of reliable labor and the tremendous cost of getting the timber to market will be likely to shut off any profits. But other experts claim that these men have overlooked the fact that the situation will be radically different in every branch of industry after the United States has taken full possession in the Philippines.

There will be a greater incentive for people to labor, as they will be sure of their wages and secure in their possession and free from heavy tax burdens. There will also be an immigration of reliable labor from the States, Australia and Europe. The heavy tax laid by the Spaniards on timber when it was brought into market and which is still collected by the United States will be removed. The heavy tariffs on mill machinery which are still assessed at the Manila custom house will be taken off or lightened by the next congress, which will have the revision of the customs duties at Manila. Railroads are sure to be built on the more important islands and through the best lumber districts of Luzon and will greatly cheapen the cost of bringing the lumber to market. Besides this the various woods of the Philippines, which are but little known in the United States or Europe, are bound after their wonderful properties are known to become vastly popular.

But even without the markets of the States or Europe a splendid market for the timber grown in the islands, especially the hard woods, will be found in the orient, Japan, China and the English colonies in the far east being capable of consuming a tremendous quantity of the timber products of the Philippines. The trade is little developed.

The present price of the hard woods in assorted lots, as is the custom in Manila, is 90 cents per cubic foot. The average price before the war was 50 cents. Sometimes, when certain varieties especially needed did not come in rapidly enough, its value rose rapidly, and frequently in the past cedar needed for cigar boxes was quoted at $2 or $3 per cubic foot. The average price of cedar was 70 cents per cubic foot. The transportation of squared logs from southern provinces to Manila costs 20 cents a cubic foot. Concessions were given free by the Spanish government to cut lumber on the crown lands, but duty had to be paid and is still paid before exporting the lumber. This duty is 11 cents per 100 kilos squared lumber, 55 cents per cubic meter for cut boards and 40 cents per 1,000 for staves.

There seems to be no limit to either the variety or the quantity of valuable timber in the islands. There are hundreds of islands in the Philippines with thousands of miles of virgin forest suitable for every purpose to which timber has ever been put. There are over 50 varieties of hard wood, almost every species of which is practically unknown in the United States. Among the costly woods are sapan wood, ebony and mahogany. Charles Graham has a collection of 130 species of woods collected during the Spanish regime. Some of these are as light as cork and others so heavy they sink like iron in water.

A bola knife taken from an insurgent by an American soldier is made of a heavy black wood that seems as hard as steel. Molave, which gives logs up to 35 feet long by 24 inches square, is one of the most valuable of the hard woods. It is equally impervious to water, insects and climate. In fact, it is said to be practically everlasting and is unsurpassed for such purposes as railroad ties and shipbuilding, for piers and wharfs.

Battinan gives logs up to 40 feet and possesses the same qualities as teak, for which it would be an excellent substitute. Antipolo is another wood that defies the effects of water and climate and does not warp and is useful for vessels. Guijo is used for carriage shafts and wheels, ipil and mangachapay have the same good qualities as molave, except resistance to sea worms, and betis and araranga, that give logs up to 75 feet long, are especially used for wharfs and sea pilings, as they are proof against water and sea worms. Tindalo, supa and acle are strong, tenacious and durable, resist fire and take a high polish. They are used for house decorations and furniture. The principal trade has been in cedar, dinglas, batitinan, camagon, guio, narra, antipolo, molave, dungons, betis, malabonga, mangachapay, calantras, ipil, anagap, apiton and tindalo.

SAVED BY HIS WIFE.

She Induced Dreyfus Not to Kill Himself.

PRISONER GAVE WAY TO TEARS.

Much Touched When Forzinetti Described Sad Scenes at Prison—Generals May Intend to Change Their Tactics. Alleged Confession Denied by Dreyfus.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Dreyfus gave way to his feelings and found relief in tears, at his trial by courtmartial, as Major Forzinetti told the story of Dreyfus' struggle with the maddening temptation to take his life and the intervention of his wife, as an angel, pointing out the road of duty. The prisoner's breast heaved with emotion and teardrops trickled down his cheeks. He rose and after a forced effort to remain calm, as he spoke a few words concerning his denial to Colonel Du Paty de Clam that he wrote the bordereau, he turned to Forzinetti with a look of thanks for his consolation so needed. Dreyfus then uttered these words of heartfelt gratitude to his wife for the courage with which she inspired him:

"It is due to her," he cried, "that I am alive today."

During the proceedings Lieutenant Colonel Brongniart asked Colonel Guerin if he thought M. Weil, who is a friend of Esterhazy, also knew Dreyfus. The latter at once rose and declared he had never before heard of Weil. The point of this question was that Esterhazy has written to Colonel Jouaust, as announced, and has undoubtedly mentioned Weil as a go-between for Dreyfus. If relations can be proved between Dreyfus and Weil, and Esterhazy admits obtaining treasonable information from Weil, then he could assume Dreyfus was a traitor.

The generals, if sufficient evidence of a Dreyfus-Weil-Esterhazy connection can be produced, can abandon the contention that Dreyfus wrote the bordereau and admit Esterhazy is the author of it. This is possibly the change of tactics on the part of the generals hinted at recently.

RENNES, France, Sept. 1.—Captain Lebrun-Renault testified, at the Dreyfus courtmartial, that he and his squadron were detailed to take Dreyfus to the military school Jan. 5, 1895, where the degradation was to occur.

He began to protest his innocence and to say that, with considerable means at his disposal and a bright future in store for him, he could have no motive in being guilty of treason. He said:

"I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged. The minister knows it well. He told Du Paty de Clam to tell me so, some days ago, in my cell. He knows that if I communicated documents to Germany they were of no importance, and it was to obtain more serious and more important documents."

Captain D'Atel was present. Artillerymen and a corporal took Dreyfus to the place of degradation.

Referring to articles in the newspapers in regard to the confession, Captain Lebrun-Renault said:

"General Mercier said to me: 'Go to the Elysee and repeat to the president of the republic what you have told me.'"

"While I was in the anteroom I heard some one remark about me in very discourteous terms. M. Dupuy ushered me before the president, who said: 'You have had relations with journalists and have been indiscreet. Certain articles have appeared in the newspapers.'"

"I replied that perhaps journalists were among the persons I had seen, but I said I had not spoken directly to journalists. No mention was made of the confession, and I left after having received a lecture from the president. M. Dupuy took me into another room and drew up a semi-official note to the effect that I had no relations with the press."

A judge—Did the president know why you came to the Elysee?

Captain Lebrun-Renault—The president was notified that I was coming. For my part, I was somewhat intimidated, which is easily explained. I heard myself described as a "traitor," "canaille" and "cur." That was not encouraging.

M. Demange asked how the witness could detect a confession in the words "I am innocent. In three years my innocence will be acknowledged."

The witness refused to say whether or not he regarded the words of Dreyfus as a confession.

M. Labori—Why did the witness keep the leaf of his pocketbook with the note of the confessions for years? The witness seems to say it was mere chance, I am surprised that the witness destroyed it just the day after it was mentioned in the chamber of deputies.

To this, Captain Lebrun-Renault replied that at that time he considered that the document he possessed was authenticated by the copy made of it by M. Cavaignac the day before it was destroyed.

M. Labori—The court will draw its own conclusions.

M. Labori said he was much surprised that the witness had not referred to the abuse at the Elysee, before the court of cassation.

Asked if he had anything to say, Dreyfus declared that when he was at the military school, on the day of his degradation, Colonel Lebrun-Renault did not leave him. As far as he could remember D'Atel was not present.

Further along, in telling of his conversation with Lebrun-Renault, he declared that he said to him:

"I am innocent, and I will say it aloud to the whole people. The minister well knows it."

"I have already explained to the court what I meant. It was the reply I had given to Colonel Du Paty de Clam when he visited me in prison, in the course of which I protested that I was innocent. I completed that declaration by a letter I wrote to the minister, redeclaring that I was innocent. Du Paty de Clam asked me whether I had not given unimportant documents in order to get more important ones in exchange for them. I replied, word for word, 'no,' that I wanted the matter cleared up, and concluded with saying, 'but before two or three years my innocence would be acknowledged.'"

"Allow me," continued Dreyfus, "to express the emotion and surprise I feel today, after five years, when I see a witness, who, after hearing such words, beginning with a protest of innocence, reported them to his chiefs without asking the most concerned person for an explanation of them. These are proceedings in the face of which all honest people can only express indignation." [Great sensation.]

Captain Anthoine said D'Atel told him that Dreyfus had made remarks the meaning of which to his mind clearly was: First, a formal confession that he had delivered documents; second, an allegation that the documents were unimportant; third, that the prisoner's object was to obtain more important documents in exchange.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled, admitted that Captain D'Atel did not speak to the prisoner, but he added that D'Atel was in the room and certainly heard the words uttered by Dreyfus.

M. Labori—What is very certain is that Captain D'Atel made no report of the incident to his chiefs.

General Mercier—No.

Lieutenant Colonel Guerin, said Dreyfus, after the degradation addressed a group of officers, saying that in three years justice would be done him. He reported this to General Sausser.

M. Demange—Was it suggested that steps be taken to verify the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—I do not recollect. M. Demange—So there was no attempt to interrogate Dreyfus in regard to the alleged confession?

Colonel Guerin—The case had passed out of the hands of the military authorities, the prisoner having been handed over to the civil authorities.

One of the judges asked the witness whether M. Weil, when attached to the army headquarters, had relations with Esterhazy, to which Colonel Guerin replied that he believed M. Weil had known Esterhazy for a long time.

The Judge—Do you think Weil knew the prisoner?

Colonel Guerin—I do not know. Dreyfus here remarked that he never knew Weil.

Others also told of hearing of the alleged confession.

When called upon to reply Dreyfus declared he had never said his trial would be revised in three years. He gave the explanation he had previously given, and said there was no sinister motive in his mind such as had been attached to those words.

[Note—Dreyfus evidently referred to the general staff's suggestion that when he used the expression "three years" he knew that Esterhazy would then appear as a man of straw and try to take his (the prisoner's) place.]

Major Forzinetti, who was governor of the Cherche Midi prison while Dreyfus was confined there, testified that while in prison Dreyfus always seemed to have the bearing of an innocent man and always asserted his innocence. The witness added that he told General de Boisdeffre that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Continuing Major Forzinetti said he was intimate with Captain Lebrun-Renault and Captain D'Atel and neither of them ever mentioned to him the alleged confession of Dreyfus.

The witness also recalled the despair of Dreyfus after his conviction and the regrets he expressed at not having resigned. Dreyfus, the major also said, talked of committing suicide.

When Dreyfus rose to reply he admitted that after his degradation he intended to commit suicide, but he added that if he succeeded in enduring the torture inflicted it was owing to his wife, who made him understand his duty. [Commotion.]

Major Forzinetti corroborated this. He said Dreyfus' statement was quite correct.

Captain Lebrun-Renault, recalled by Colonel Jouaust, said he did not tell Major Forzinetti of Dreyfus' confession because General Risbourg, his commanding officer, had told him to hold his tongue.

General de Boisdeffre also asserted that there were inaccuracies in Major Forzinetti's evidence. The general denied that the major ever declared to him that he believed Dreyfus was innocent.

Replying to M. Demange, Major Forzinetti said he adhered to all the evidence he had given before the court of cassation.

In the United States 37 per cent of children under 3 years of age die from gastro intestinal disorders.

AN IMPERIALISM ROW.

Incipient Riot at a Lecture In Cincinnati.

MEN TRIED TO STRIKE HALSTEAD.

Anti-Imperialists Called Traitors For Wishing the American Army Routed and Captured—Men There Who Would Have Fought For Halstead.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—Editor Murat Halstead lectured, by invitation, before the Economic club, in this city. The audience was miscellaneous, in addition to the members of the club, which is largely anti-imperialistic. Mr. Halstead's subject was the Philippines. After the lecture, according to the rules of the club, Mr. Halstead was plied with questions. One of the questioners with decided sympathy for Aguinaldo after his question had been answered, added the remark: "I hope Otis will be kept in and will keep on blundering till he and the whole army are driven into the sea or captured." Mr. Halstead said: "A man with those sentiments is a traitor to his country."

Several men jumped up and remarked: "Two thirds of this audience thinks that way."

Mr. Halstead replied: "Whoever thinks that way is a traitor."

Then there was a rush down the hall with raised fists toward Mr. Halstead, but a great number of men stepped in between Mr. Halstead and those who rushing at him.

There was a great noise and uproar which disclosed the fact that the audience was composed of men on both sides of that question. Mr. Halstead was quietly led out of the church by a side door and taken home. No blows were struck, but chairs and seats were upset and there were loud threats and great uproariousness.

LADIES WANT TO PARADE.

Mrs. Giddings Proposed to Take Her Command to New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Alexander Giddings of Cleveland has written to the Dewey reception executive committee as commander of the "White escort" of Cleveland, asking for a place in the line during the parade. She describes her command as consisting of "124 young ladies all dressed in pure white and carrying bright silk flags." The letter was forwarded to General Roe, who has charge of the makeup of the land parade.

General Roe said the other day that only military organizations would have a place in the line.

Help the Dewey Home Fund.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Frank A. Vanderlip, chairman of the Dewey home fund, and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer, issued a statement to the public saying in part: "The Dewey home fund now exceeds $21,000 in the hands of the treasurer, from 27,695 contributors, with sums aggregating about $15,000 or $18,000 reported as subscribed still held by local committees and subscribers." He then asks for more subscriptions. The committee has never received any declination from Admiral Dewey, and, on the contrary, has every reason to believe that he will accept the gift.

Dewey Sailed For Gibraltar.

VILLEFRANCHE, France, Sept. 1.—Admiral Dewey, on the cruiser Olympia, left for Gibraltar. The admiral said he was in perfect health. He expects to stay at Gibraltar until Sept. 12. He expressed pleasure, previous to his departure, at his stay here and dreads his countrymen's reception. The admiral's visit here was the most interesting in history of the harbor.

TO HONOR NEGRO HEROES.

Some Doing Gallant Service In Cuba to Be Given Commissions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Adjutant General Corbin said that there were less than 100 appointments of volunteer officers yet to be made, and they belonged mainly to the states of Wisconsin, California and Ohio. All the field commissions in the volunteer establishment have been distributed with the exception of one lieutenant colonelcy and ten majorities. The governors of the states which contributed colored troops to the volunteer army in the war with Spain have been requested by the secretary of war to nominate company officers for the colored volunteer regiment. Colonel William P. Duvall of the Twenty-sixth infantry most probably will have command. The other regimental officers will be secured from the regular service, and there is a general understanding that most, if not all, the company officers will be appointed from the colored regiments which rendered such gallant and efficient service in the battles of El Caney and San Juan Hill in the Santiago campaign.

PRESIDENT FIGUEROA RESIGNED.

Reported He Did So In the Interest of Jimenez.

SAN DOMINGO, Sept. 1.—President

Figueroa has resigned. The ministers will continue at the head of their various departments until a provisional government has been formed, after which the elections for president and vice president will take place.

At Cape Haitien, Haiti, it is said that Figueroa has resigned in favor of Jimenez.

SANTIAGO, Sept. 1.—It was reported Jimenez would leave here today.

Formed to Control Pittsburg District Railroad Mines—Has Agreement With River Combine.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The Pittsburg rail coal mine combination has been formed and a meeting will be held within two weeks to elect officers. The new corporation is the Pittsburg Coal company and its capital stock is $64,000,000. It owns the coal properties of 104 of the 107 individuals and firms in the business, has practically absolute control of the docks and coal loading plants on the great lakes and has a monopoly on all the outlets to the coal markets of the east, west and northwest. There is an understanding between this combine and the combine of the river coal interests of the Pittsburg district, so that neither will encroach upon the territory of the other, thus putting the Pittsburg district, with its output of 23,918,804 tons of coal last year, in the hands of two great concerns.

Of that total output last year the properties now owned by the Pittsburg Coal company produced over 17,000,000 tons, and this year it is expected that the production will exceed 20,000,000 tons. Included in the assets of the concerns taken over are 81,236 acres of coal lands and 7,126 acres of surface land situated in the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland in Pennsylvania on the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system, the lines of the Pennsylvania company and those of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Pittsburg and Western railroads, with direct connections with many dock and loading plants.

HUNTING DYNAMITERS.

Officers Active Owing to the Injuries to Passengers by the Explosion In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—The persons injured by the blowing up of a street car on Willson avenue are not in a serious condition and will recover. A large number of patrolmen have been detailed for detective duty in citizens' clothing, and with them are operating the police detective force and squads of operatives from several private detective agencies, not to mention scores of amateurs who are out for the liberal rewards that have been offered.

An examination of the spot where the explosion occurred and the testimony of an expert on explosives who heard the report a short distance away show that nitroglycerin was the agent used in wrecking the car. The street railway strikers denounce the outrage and say they would offer a reward for the arrest of the perpetrators if the state of their treasury would warrant it.

Americans Made a Sally From Cebu Rebels Stopped Preparing to Attack Imus.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—Dispatches received from Cebu announced that the American troops under Colonel Bayless, with two field pieces, sallied into the hills against a band of natives who recently ambushed four of our soldiers and who have been generally troublesome. The American force found the natives entrenched and drove them from their trenches further into the hills. There were no casualties on the American side, though there were some heat prostrations. The natives' loss was not known.

The Fourth infantry having prepared to give the insurgents a warm reception, the latter ceased their preparations for an attack on Imus.

DR. BEDLOE DENIED CHARGES.

Explained the Steamer Abbey Affair. Not Under Suspension.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Too ill to continue his journey to Washington without a day's rest, Dr. Edward Bedloe, United States consul at Canton, China, halted in Chicago and, while here, took occasion to deny the report that he is under suspension and to discuss the charges that have been filed against him with the state department. He said in part: "Thus far I have not been informed officially that any charges have been laid against me. The first intimation I had to that effect was when, on arriving in this country, I saw the reports in the newspapers."

"An American registry was granted to the steamer Abbey, it is true, but that was done more than a year ago, and at a time when the Filipinos were regarded as allies of the United States. The charge that I am in sympathy with the Filipinos is rank nonsense. The Abbey is a vessel so small as to be of no importance and when the American registry was granted the boat was under bond to the Chinese government to make a trip to Singapore. The bond subsequently forfeited."

COL. HAWKINS RESTS.

THE FUNERAL EXERCISES TODAY.

Simple Services on the Campus of Washington and Jefferson College—Chaplain Hunter Spoke—Troops Acted as Escort. Tenth Regiment Attended.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—The body of Colonel Alexandr Leroy Hawkins was laid in its last earthly resting place today after simple ceremonies.

The town was profusely decorated in honor of the Tenth boys' homecoming and crepe had been added to the decorations in many places. At the cemetery entrance the two large pillars were wrapped with bands of red, white and blue, draped with crepe, and about the vault where the body laid flags waved in the breeze. Day and night a guard of soldiers had been on duty at the vault, and were kept there until this morning.

Special trains brought great crowds to the city. A troop train brought the troops from Pittsburg that acted as escort, the escort being composed of a battalion from the Eighteenth, three companies of the Fourteenth regiments and Company C, unassigned, of Washington, in command of Colonel W. J. Glenn. The Second Brigade band rendered the music.

The body was brought to the campus of Washington and Jefferson college, where the ceremonies were held, and placed in front of the speakers' stand.

The opening prayer was made by Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle, chaplain of Ascalon commandery No. 59 of Pittsburg. At the special request of Mrs. Hawkins, Rev. Joseph Hunter, chaplain of the Tenth regiment, preached the funeral sermon and Rev. Dr. Temple of the First United Presbyterian church, Washington, Pa., pronounced the benediction.

The honorary pallbearers were Colonel Smith, Colonel Kreps, Brit Hart, James S. Stocking, M. L. A. McCracken, Major S. L. Wilson, Judge McIlvaine and Sheldon Hayes.

At the close of these exercises the remains were escorted to the cemetery by the funeral escort. Immediately behind the casket came the relatives and specially invited friends. These were followed by the various orders, including the De Molay commandery of Washington county; Templeton post, G. A. R.; Hawkins' camp, Sons of Veterans; former members of Colonel Hawkins' command; Bealville Masonic lodge, of which Colonel Hawkins was a member; representatives of the Pittsburg Knights Templar; Post 120, G. A. R.; Camp 316, Sons of Veterans; about 100 members of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania cavalry. The members of the Tenth regiment, under Lieutenant Colonel Barnett, attended in a body. In addition to these Governor Stone and staff and a number of other national guard officers participated in the ceremonies.

Tenth Men Entertained.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 1.—Major Everhart Bierer, George W. Neff, Captain Daniel M. Bierer, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood and a number of privates were entertained by the lodge of Elks. Major Neff, Major Bierer and his brother, Captain Dan Bierer, related stories connected with the Philippines. Judge E. H. Reppert, R. H. Lindsey, Lieutenant Robert M. Wood, District Attorney Crow and others also spoke, along with Dr. J. B. Ewing and J. K. Ewing, Jr.

PENSION ROLL DECREASED.

Evans' Report Showed 40,991 Names Added and 43,186 Dropped.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The annual report of Hon. H. Clay Evans, commissioner of pensions, showed that during the year there were added to the pension roll 40,991 names and 43,186 were dropped, 34,345 of these by reason of death.

There was expended for pensions $138,355,052. The annual value of the entire pension roll amounts to $131,617,961, being $649,496 more than it ever was, due to the higher average annual value of pensions. The roll is made up of 753,451 surviving soldiers, 237,415 widows and dependent relatives and 653 nurses. The total number of original applications filed during the year, including those on account of the war with Spain, was 48,765. The number of original claims allowed was 37,077.

During the year 107,919 claims of all classes were rejected, a large percentage of these being claims for increase. The report will state that the delay in the adjudication of claims is in nearly every case the fault of the claimants or their attorneys.

In order that the present complex system of pensioning may be simplified and to secure a more uniform practice in the future, the appointment of a commission on the revision of the laws, rules and regulations was recommended.

MUCH MONEY BACKING DEALS

Charity of East End People Is Becoming Known All Over the City—Another Purse Has Been Presented—A Snake Charmed a Chicken—Personals.

Within a short time residences will be built on the ground known as Columbian park, and on the hillside overlooking the park as far back as 900 feet. The matter is now assuming shape. There are seven prominent men in the deal, and when their plans are carried out the place will be a credit to any city double the size of Liverpool. This morning a gentleman interested said:

"It is the intention of the company to build modern residences which will front on the race track. The track will be known and will be improved to a considerable extent. The hillside will be terraced and while the houses will be of frame they will be modern in every respect. There will be a street constructed through the center of the oval bounded by the race track for heavy hauling as none will be allowed on the boulevard. Another street car line will lead to the place and within a few weeks an application will be made to council for a franchise. The matter has been thoroughly considered by the men who are interested and they have enough capital at their command to carry out their ideas.

As a Boulevard

Fall suitings all in; prices from $13.50 up. Satisfaction guaranteed or you need not take the suit.

Residents Willing to Help Any and All Who Are in Need.

It is a well known fact that when any person in East End is in destitute circumstances all they have to do is to make it known and assistance is at once extended. Within the last three weeks several papers have been circulated among the East End people for the purpose of helping those who are in need. A few days ago George Wright of St. George street was surprised to find that his friends had raised a purse amounting to $41 for his benefit. He is employed at the Globe pottery, but has not been working steadily for some time on account of sickness. His daughter died recently and this was a severe blow to the family. The employees at an East End pottery are selling a bicycle for the benefit of one of their workmen who is ill and expect to give him the proceeds within a few days.

A Snake and Chicken Story From Mulberry Street.

Yesterday afternoon a small snake was seen crawling on the ground near Mulberry and Pennsylvania avenue. A chicken was near by and the snake seeing it crawled that direction. The fowl commenced to chirp and was unable to move as the snake had it charmed. Just as the chicken was to be killed several men appeared and killed the snake.

New Residents.

Motorman George Hale has moved his family from Ralston's crossing to St. George street.

Mrs. Frank Hanley is now occupying a house on Pennsylvania avenue. She moved from St. George street.

SOUTH SIDE. HIT BY A STREET CAR

Robert Stewart Has Leased a New Farm For Several Years--Robert Marshall and John Martin Figure In a Peculiar Deal. Boys Stung by Bees--News.

Alexander Pugh, aged 68 years, and one of the best known residents in the Grant district, was accidentally struck by a Rock Spring car yesterday afternoon and sustained several bad bruises. His right shoulder was bruised and his right foot was badly injured near the ankle. Mr. Pugh was walking along the narrow path near the office of Engineer McConnell, but too near the track. He thought he was out of the way of the car and did not change his course. When he was struck the motorman did not stop the car, and not until late in the afternoon did he learn his car had struck Mr. Pugh. The accident is one of the most peculiar that has happened on the Southside for many months, and the motorman has been exonerated from all blame.

LEASED A FARM.

Robert Stewart Is Now Working a New Piece of Land.

The Malinda Penny farm, in Grant district, was leased recently at public auction by Special Commissioner E. A. Hart at the court house. Robt. Stewart was the highest bidder, and the farm was leased to him for a period of two years for the sum of $50.

Marshall Out of Business.

When Robert Marshall purchased the express business of John Martin he thought he had a good thing. After working the horse about six hours a call was made on Martin and Marshall resold the horse and wagon to him for $122.50, losing $2.50 on the deal. Martin had purchased another outfit and when he fixed up accounts found he had lost $2.50 by the deal too.

A VALUABLE FRANCHISE

Council Should Investigate the Garbage Question

BEFORE GRANTING A MONOPOLY

To the Sanitary Reduction Company or Any Private Concern--Other Cities Own Their Own Furnaces and This City Should Follow Suit.

A prominent citizen today in speaking of the garbage question said:

"Council should do a little investigating before they award the contract for disposing of the garbage to a private corporation.

"The franchise is too valuable a one to be given away by the city, and if there is a furnace built the city should follow the example of McKeesport, Youngstown, Martin's Ferry and a number of other cities and have their own furnace. Canton is in the same fix as East Liverpool but the council of that city didn't for a moment think of awarding the franchise to a private corporation but are now making arrangements to build their own furnace.

"In Youngstown and McKeesport the Dixon system is in use and has been highly successful and the furnaces are almost self sustaining as all the expense attached to operate them is the coal and one man at the furnace. The furnaces can be built for not more than $4,000 and it can be readily seen that it is a paying investment to a private corporation. If the council will take the trouble to secure statistics from cities operating their own furnaces they will readily find out why it is the head man of the Sanitary Reduction company is so anxious to get a contract that he will resign his position as clerk of the board of health in order that he may do business with council.

"Another feature to be deplored in a private company is that if the service is not good the city is compelled to grin and bear, while if the city owns the furnace it will be placed in care of the board of health, and if they don't do their duty well the council can at any time remove the board. The garbage is hauled to the city furnaces by private haulers, and the health officers or sanitary policeman can at any time compel citizens to have the garbage taken to the furnace.

"The council should not go at this matter blind and the ordinance when it reaches its third reading should be laid over as the day for giving away valuable franchises like this one has passed. The only practical way to get rid of the garbage is for the city to advertise for bids for building the furnace and to take the matter in their own hands.

"Another feature of the city owning the furnace is the fact that it will not cost the taxpayers near as much in the long run to build a furnace as it will to pay the rates charged by a private concern. Make a thorough investigation, members of council, and we are sure you will never award a franchise to the Sanitary Reduction company or any other private concern. The board of health disposed of the matter in a hurry and failed to look into the affair or they would never have recommended such a contract."

HALF a vote's better than none.—
John R. McLean.

MCLEAN may not be an orator, but he'll be able to put plenty of gas into the campaign.

THE bicycle trust had no trouble raising the wind, but it had better look out for punctures.

JIMMY RICE's prediction that some people would be surprised at Zanesville
came true. He was one of them.

THE Bell phone people in Wellsville
can truthfully say "the line's busy
now." All Wellsville is talking.

ALL the Democratic papers in the state printed campaign pictures of John R. McLean yesterday in his easiest
hand in his pocket ready to disburse.

MEANS A FIGHT.

The purchase of the Democratic nomination for governor of Ohio by John R.
McLean means that the Republicans of the President's state will have their work cut out for them this fall. When Millionaire McLean buys anything,
whether it be a newspaper, a gas plant,
trust stock or a Democratic nomination,
he intends to get out of it all there is in it. He has more money, influence and resources at his command than any Democratic candidate for governor of the Buckeye state for years and will undoubtedly make a hot fight. The Republicans who are joking over his nomination are making a big mistake.
Belittling the enemy results in general apathy and frequently in defeat. While there is no doubt of Republican success
if an ordinarily full vote is polled, the duty of every Republican from now until election day will be to urge his neighbor to come out and cast his vote
for Nash, the whole Republican ticket, and the principles which mean peace
and prosperity.

DO YOUR DUTY.

While thousands of honest Democrats bowed their heads in humiliation and shame when the news of McLean's nomination became known, the Republicans have in George K. Nash, a nominee whom every member of the party can respect and vote for. The entire Republican ticket is composed of men of like calibre and the Republican platform is made up of the planks which have brought the country prosperity.
Republican triumph next November
will mean a continuance of prosperity;
it will uphold the policy and principles of the Republican president; it will be best for the interests of East Liverpool, for the good name of the state and the welfare of the nation. Republican success will mean honest money and honest wages. Every ballot cast for George K. Nash and the Republican ticket will give actual aid and enthusiastic encouragement to the men who are fighting
for the flag in the far-off Philippines.
It will proclaim to all the world that Ohio has no sympathy with traitors to the flag, but is firm and steadfast in the faith of the fathers. Ohio must go Republican and it surely will if every Republican does his duty to his principles and his party.

FLOYD STEARNS DEAD

He Fell Into a Kettle of Hot
Tomatoes

AND WAS FATALLY BURNED

The Little One Was the Only Child of Mr.
and Mrs. J. W. Stearns of the West End
and the Parents Are Heart Broken.
Philip J. Green Died This Morning.

Floyd Stearns, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stearns, died this morning at their home in West End as a result of burns received yesterday.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Stearns was making tomato butter and had lifted
the kettle full of steaming tomatoes
from the stove and put it on the floor. She started for the door to throw out a pan of water and was followed by the child, who tripped just as he passed the kettle and fell backwards into the steaming tomatoes.
The mother snatched her child out of the red hot tomatoes at once but he had been horribly burned and the united efforts of three physicians could not save him and he died at 9 o'clock this morning.

The funeral will take place tomorrow
afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence in West End. Interment will be made at Riverview.

Philip J. Green died this morning at his home on Third street. Deceased was very well known in the city and had been a veterinary surgeon here for years.

Going to Europe.

Mrs. John McFadden left today for New York and tomorrow she will sail
on board the Lucania for Liverpool,

Night Decided on This Step.

About 24 potters representing practically every pottery in the city met last evening in the rooms of the Potters' club and talked over the matter of increasing the selling price of ware. The matter was discussed at length and a committee was appointed to investigate the matter and prepare plans upon which definite action may be taken. Another meeting will be held when the committee are ready to make a report.

COURT TAKES A HAND

And Issues an Injunction Restraining Bell Telephone

FROM PLANTING THEIR POLES

On Main Street, Wellsville, Until a Hearing Can Be Had—Both the City and Property Owners Appeal to Court—Wellsville Wrought Up to Wild Excitement.

LISBON, Sept. 1. —[Special]— Last evening Hannah E. Aten and W. C. Bunting applied for injunctions to enjoin the Bell Telephone company from planting poles in front of their properties on Main street, Wellsville.

Argument was begun before Judge Boone at 6 o'clock and continued until 8:30 when an injunction was granted the applicants, under $400 bond, enjoining the Bell company from digging holes or planting poles in front of the properties involved.

At 8 o'clock another application was filed on behalf of the city of Wellsville asking for a blanket injunction to restrain the Bell people from digging holes or planting poles anywhere on Main street. It was also granted temporarily.

CLAIM THERE WAS A MISTAKE MADE

And That the Injunctions Were Granted Under a Misapprehension of Fact.

LISBON, Sept. 1.—Noon.—[Special]— It now appears that the injunction granted the city of Wellsville against the Bell people was granted under a misapprehension. The petitioners stated the Bell people had no ordinance granting them any rights in Main street and this not being disputed at the time Judge Boone granted the temporary injunction.

This morning however the Bell people, through their attorney, Judge Billingsley, filed with the judge a copy of an ordinance passed by Wellsville council years ago, granting the rights now maintained. The question now at issue is whether this ordinance is or is not a valid ordinance and will be decided at the hearing in common police court when evidence will be heard pro and con.

WELLSVILLE'S WAR.

The Whole Town Up In Arms Against the Bell Phone People.

It has been a long time since Wellsville people were so wrought up as they were yesterday and today over the attempt of the Bell Telephone company to override the wishes of the city council and the citizens in planting poles for their new cable system on Main street instead of on the alleys as the new Columbiana county phone people are doing.

The news of the temporary injunction secured restraining the company was received with unanimous rejoicing by the citizens.

The excitement was increased when the news of the discovery of an alleged error in the injunction cases reached Wellsville at noon. The city officials stoutly maintain the ordinance referred to is no good.

A PETITION.

RYAN AND GOLF MET

And Ryan Got the Worst of a Pitched Battle.

HIS NAME WAS DENNIS

When Golf Got Through Playing With His Face—The Men Go Before the Mayor and One of Them Is Fined $10.60 While the Other Pleads Not Guilty.

Alfred Golf and Dennis Ryan were arrested last evening for fighting at their boarding house on Broadway.

They spent the night in the city jail and Golf was the first one to appear before the mayor. He had a scratch on his left eye and looked very much as though he had been in a scrap. He gave a detailed account of how the fight occurred, and from his story he was not to blame, but the mayor fined him $10.60 and he was put in jail.

Dennis Ryan came next and judging by his looks his name had been Dennis in the fight. His right cheek was black and blue and was swelled considerably. There were blood stains all over his shirt front and he had a scratch back of his ear. According to his story there was a man working at the Mc-Nicol pottery whom Golf had said he would do up and the man was afraid of his life and Dennis was employed as a safeguard. He acknowledged that he had drunk four glasses of beer, but said it didn't make him drunk. Golf was denounced as a dangerous man and prize fighter and Ryan said Golf hit him in the back of the head and on the cheek and then fled out into the darkness. He said he threw two bottles at Golf in order to protect himself, but neither of them took effect. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of fighting and was sent back to jail until the mayor could interview Officer Woods. Ryan was fined $11.50.

A Libel on Gotham.

The nearest approach to a system ever yet made by a New York deputy assessor of personal taxes was invented by one who was somewhat of a card player.

He took a pack of cards, gave a value to each card and then drew a card from the pack for each name on his list. A deuce meant $2,000, a tray $3,000, a four $4,000 and so on up to the knave, which was valued at $20,000, the queen at $30,000, the king at $40,000 and the ace at $50,000. If anything less than a five spot was drawn, he erased the name from the list, as it is customary to assess only those who are supposed to possess $5,000 or more of personal estate.

The especially amusing thing about this man's work was that there were fewer objections made to his assessments than to those of any other deputy. He gained a reputation for hard work, and his salary was raised twice in one year. —Buffalo Express.

The Curate's Trousers.

A clergyman who has been an ideal rector to one congregation for more than 20 years has had a wide experience in curates. He knows them like a book, as the saying is, knows just what effect an unlimited course of afternoon teas, committee meetings, little dinners and general flattery will have on a given temperament and how it will be manifested.

Therefore, he has evolved this general law: If the carpet before a curate's mirror is threadbare and the crease in his trousers above reproach, you may be sure that the world is too much with him; if the carpet by his bedside is threadbare and his trousers bag at the knee, he is all right. —Washington Post.

PREHISTORIC FOSSILS.

Some Interesting Discoveries Recently Made In Wyoming.

HOW THEY WERE UNEARTHED.

New System Inaugurated In Quarrying the Fossils and In Extracting the Bones With as Little Damage as Possible—Many Valuable Skeletons Have Been Discovered.

Professor Henry F. Osborne, in charge of the geological department of Columbia university and connected with the American Museum of Natural History in New York, arrived in Denver recently from the fossil fields at Aurora, Wyo. Professor Osborne is in charge of the work at that place which is being carried on under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History, says the Denver Republican.

"This is our eighth season at the work," he said the other afternoon, "and it has been our best. We have discovered many valuable skeletons and a large quantity of miscellaneous bones. We are in search chiefly of dinosaur fossil remains, and the quarries in which we have been working have proved rich in just the specimens that we sought. Two years ago we began work in digging out a large skeleton, which turned out to be half complete. It was about 70 feet long. This year we have completed the excavation of a skeleton which lacks but little of being absolutely perfect. The head, some of the vertebrae of the neck and one or two bones of the fore limbs are missing. By comparison of the femurs of both skeletons we have proved that the animals were of the same size. We will be able to combine both and then will have a fossil skeleton complete, except the head and seven of the vertebrae. The most recent discovery in our quarries was a small head of a dinosaur. Unfortunately it belongs to an animal much smaller than those whose skeletons we have just found.

"The head is interesting on account of its small proportions. It is barely 18 inches long and a foot wide. When you remember that the body to which it belonged was 50 feet long, at least, and almost as high, you get an idea of the snakelike smallness of the head. The problem that it presents is how did the animal get its food in sufficient quantities to support such an immense frame? No animal that chewed its food could possibly nourish itself with such a small mouth. The few teeth and the unwork condition of them prove that the animal did not chew. It is probable that it lived on extremely soft and nourishing water plants which it rooted out with its spadelike head and swallowed whole.

"Our quarries in Aurora have furnished an immense number of specimens, not only of the dinosaurs, but also of antediluvian turtles and alligators. We find that the particular district in which we are working now is becoming exhausted, and part of the work which I outlined for our men for the rest of the season is in the nature of prospecting. The whole of Wyoming, we are convinced, is rich in just such relics as we are seeking, but we must hunt for them, just as a miner hunts for metal. The animals, which are chiefly water dinosaurs, when they died were preyed upon by carnivorous dinosaurs. These latter scattered the bones of their prey, and often the water that flowed over the carcass and eventually formed the rock formation around it further disturbed the bones. So, you see, fossil remains occur in veins and leads. Having once found a rib or a vertebra, we follow up the vein, just as a gold miner would.

"Our campaign has in view obtaining a complete fossil selection and mounting it. The most careful work in extracting the bones is necessary. We have inaugurated a new system in our work, which results in our getting more perfect bones than it has ever before been possible to obtain. We quarry the fossil that we find in the block of stone, and instead of attempting with the necessarily rough tools we have on the spot to take away the sandstone from the petrified bone, we ship the whole piece in a cheap cast of plaster, to preserve it, to the museum at New York, where we have experienced workmen who can get the bone out of its stone sheath with as little damage as possible. This process makes our skeletons the most perfect in the world. In Wyoming we have six extremely skilled workmen.

"In the party that spent the summer at the quarries this year were Walter Granger, second assistant in the department of vertebrate paleontology; Dr. W. D. Matthew, also an assistant, and myself, who is a director of the department of vertebrate paleontology. All this western country," went on Professor Osborne, "is full of the most valuable fossil remains. The Rocky mountains, you know, are comparatively young, and rose out of the Jurassic sea, at the edge of which we find our dinosaurs. There is scarcely enough interest shown in the subject among the people of this state. Were we to be informed by people who know of the existence of fossils; the place where such are to be found, many valuable discoveries might be made. But, unfortunately, people pass such things by and do not give a second thought to the contribution to science they might assist in making. Many a farming lad could give scientists hints that would lead to precious discoveries."

REMEMBERED THEIR DEAD.

President and Mrs. McKinley Placed Flowers on Graves—Congratulations on Pittsburgh Speech.

CANTON, O., Sept. 1.—The president, with Mrs. McKinley, her sister and niece, drove to Westlawn cemetery, where he visited the graves of the family, covering them with flowers. Many letters and telegrams awaited him here, congratulating him on his Pittsburgh address.

There are several county society meetings in progress here and delegates were among the callers at the house. The president went to a pure food show at the Tabernacle for a few minutes in response to an urgent invitation from the Episcopal church, which is managing the entertainment. Mrs. McKinley also patronized the pure food show, by liberally responding to a request for flowers from the White House conservatory.

President McKinley was accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou and others. The size of the crowd had almost blocked the show when he arrived, and someone proposed that he go through a rear entrance opening upon the stage, from where the view was comparatively clear, but this he declined to do, saying he would attend just as other people did. Guards made a way and the party passed up and down the aisles, inspecting and admiring the displays.

There was vociferous cheering by the crowd as he entered, which was drowned out by the playing of "Hail to the Chief" by a brass band.

REPLY TO OHIO DEMOCRATS.

London Paper Insists There Will Never Be Anglo-American Alliance.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Commenting on the paragraph adopted at the Ohio state Democratic convention denouncing "the secret and vicious alliance now in evidence between England and the Republican administration," The Globe said that no such alliance is ever likely to come to pass. The paper belittles the effect of such an utterance upon the Americans and says:

"The more radical friendship which has latterly grown up between the great English-speaking nations has struck too deep roots on both sides of the Atlantic to be blown away by a puff of electioneering wind."

ANOTHER CONFERENCE WANTED.

Condition of the Negotiations Between England and Transvaal.

PRETORIA, Sept. 1.—The Transvaal's note to Great Britain, offering the five-year franchise and the other concessions, was strongly worded and explained that the concessions were made with a sincere desire fully to settle all differences, to put an end to strained relations and avert a disastrous war.

The note of Mr. Conyngham Greene in reply was conciliatory and tantamount to an acceptance of the five-year offer. It agreed to waive the suggested commission of inquiry, provided a representative, to be appointed by Sir Alfred Milner, should be given facilities in Pretoria to make an investigation of the franchise question and provided the report of such representative should prove satisfactory. Otherwise the Transvaal government was requested to await further suggestions from the imperial government before submitting new proposals to the viceroy. Mr. Greene's note in conclusion suggested a further conference at Cape Town.

More Volunteers Were Landed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The 1,388 officers and men of the Idaho, First North Dakota and First Wyoming regiments of volunteer infantry and a battalion of the Wyoming light artillery arrived from Manila, disembarked from the transport Grant and marched to the Presidio, where they will remain in camp until mustered out. The reception accorded the returning volunteers was a most hearty one.

Billiard Player Ives Dead.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 1.—A telegram received by Dr. J. D. Peters, father-in-law of Frank Ives, the champion billiard player, announces the latter's death, which occurred at Progresso, Mexico. Consumption was the cause of death. Ives' remains will be brought to Plainwell, Mich., at which place he was born in 1866.

Killed His Father-in-Law.

NEWARK, O., Sept. 1.—Jacob Kellar shot and killed his father-in-law, Henry Hobart, north of Newark. Kellar and Hobart had been hostile for several years over family troubles. Hobart went to Kellar's residence and shot him twice. Kellar is still living. Kellar ran into the house, grabbed a pistol and shot Hobart dead.

The Old Man's Retort.

"You don't have any ruins in this blawsted country," said the British seion to his future father-in-law. "No," said the old man, "we don't. And you won't have any left in England if your noble army of titled paupers can marry enough rich Yankee girls to put new roofs on your old castles."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Her Way of Getting It.

Wife (earnestly)—George, dear, I have prayed so fervently of late for a taller made gown that I feel it would be flying in the face of Providence not to go and get measured at once.—Brooklyn Life.

Dreyfus.

[By Edwin Markham, author of "The Man With the Hoe and Other Poems."] A man stood stained. France was one Alp of hate.

Pressing upon him with the whole world's weight. In all the circle of the ancient sun. There was no voice to speak for him—not one. In all the world of men there was no sound. But of a sword hung broken to the ground.

Hell laughed its little hour, and then, behold, How one by one the guarded gates unfolded! Swiftly a sword by unseen forces hurled! And now a man rising against the world!

Oh, import deep as life is, deep as time! There is a something sacred and sublime Moving behind the worlds, beyond our ken, Weighing the stars, weighing the deeds of men.

Take heart, O soul of sorrow, and be strong! There is one greater than the whole world's wrong.

Be hushed before the high, benignant power That moves wool shod through sepulcher and tower!

No truth so low but he will give it crown; No wrong so high but he will hurl it down. Oh, men that forge the fetter, it is vain; There is a still hand stronger than your chain!

'Tis no avail to bargain, sneer and nod And shrug the shoulder for reply to God. —Published from McClure's Magazine For September by Permission of the S. S. McClure Company.

FUTURE DEAN OF DIPLOMATS

Baron Fava Will Be Head of the Embassadorial Corps.

The dispatches from Rome announcing that Baron Fava has sailed for America are very interesting to Washington society. The announcement is rather unexpected, too, for when the baron left the United States two years ago it was understood that he would not return in an official capacity. Baron Fava desired to retire from the diplomatic corps upon the usual pension given by grateful countries to ambassadors. The Italian government for some reason declined to pension him, but decided that he might remain upon the rolls as ambassador to the United States indefinitely.

The reason of his sudden determination to return to his long deserted post at Washington is that the retirement of Lord Pauncefoot in the early future will make Baron Fava the dean of the embassadorial corps in Washington, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald. It is on this account that the report of his return is peculiarly interesting to society. The Italian envoy is of a thrifty turn of mind. His manner of conducting his embassy is on the plan recommended by the great Franklin, to look after the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. At one time the baron, while ambassador, located his domicile over a prosperous barber establishment. His quarters are at all times modest to say the least. On one occasion, having to entertain some visitors from his home country whose claims could not be ignored, the careful baron took quarters at the Arlington during their stay and by a liberal use of its parlors lent grace to his extraordinary burst of hospitality.

The Italians in Washington are far from being pleased with the mode of life followed by the amiable baron. As a successor of the hospitable, if formal, Lord Pauncefoot as dean of the diplomatic corps, all Washington society is full of interest as to his programme for the winter. Baron Fava has no family, his only son having died here about four years ago. The baroness is a charming woman, very popular in social circles.

Ohio Organizations to Go.

TOLEDO, Sept. 1.—Colonel W. V. McMackin of the Sixth Ohio volunteers received a letter from Governor Bushnell, stating that it is proposed to take all Ohio military organizations to New York to attend the Dewey celebration. Governor Bushnell stated that railroad rates would determine to some extent the number of men to be sent.

Some Negroes Surrendered.

DARIEN, Ga., Sept. 1.—The negro rioters concerned in the Delagat affair were surrendering daily in small squads. The military posse was searching the swamps for them and had come across several small parties who were trying to evade the law. Judge Seabrooke convened court. Soldiers armed patrolled the streets for blocks.

Boy Who Hazed Grant Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—On the recommendation of the superintendent of the military academy the president has directed the summary dismissal from the service of the United States of Cadet Philip F. Smith of the third class "for harrassing and annoying a fourth class man." The man hazed was Ulysses S. Grant.

Bicycle Trust Completed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The American Bicycle company completed its permanent organization. Albert G. Spalding is president.

G. A. R. AT PHILADELPHIA.

Low Rates For Everybody via Pennsylvania Lines.

The sale of low rate excursion tickets to Philadelphia for the G. A. R. National encampment will commence Friday, Sept. 1, over Pennsylvania lines. For four days, Sept. 1, 2, 3, and 4, reduced rate tickets may be purchased over this route.

The advantages of traveling over America's standard railway system may be enjoyed by everybody who may wish to get the benefit of the low fare. In addition to special advantages in directness, solid roadbed, comfortable cars, etc., the Pennsylvania route offers:

No change of cars.

Daylight arrival at Philadelphia.

Tickets via Washington.

Stop-over at National Capital.

Tickets going one route, returning another.

Extension of limit on tickets, and every concession authorized for the encampment. For particulars apply to nearest ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines.

Vacation Trips.

The Pennsylvania lines extend direct to places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic Ocean. Atlantic City, Cape May, Asbury Park Long Branch and resorts on the New Jersey coast are seashore terminals of the Pennsylvania system. Newport, Narragansett and summer havens in New England are reached over the Pennsylvania route via New York. The Adirondacks, White Mountains, Catskills and mountain retreats of the east are also reached through New York. Resorts in the Alleghenies are located upon the Pennsylvania route and may be reached via Pittsburgh without changing car. The Pennsylvania lines also lead to resorts in Michigan and the lake region through three gateways: Cleveland, Toledo and Fort Wayne. Full information about rates, through time of trains and the convenient manner in which summer resorts may be reached will be cheerfully furnished upon application to local passenger and ticket agents of the Pennsylvania lines, or by addressing J. K. Dillon, D. P. Agt., Pittsburgh Pa.

New Sunday Trains.

Under new schedule taking effect on Pennsylvania lines, C. & P. division, Sunday, July 23, a new train will be run regularly on Sundays between Pittsburgh, East Liverpool, Steubenville and Bellaire. FINE JOB WORK. The News rooms are the best equipped in eastern Ohio, and we are consequently able to turn out large quantities of work on short notice.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

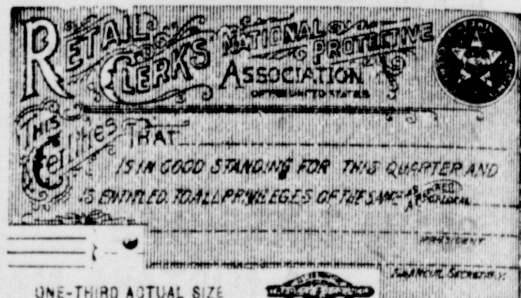

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the R. C. N. P. A.

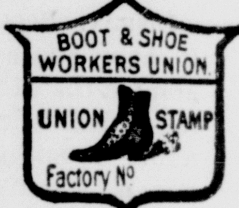

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER.

Look only at the months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Local.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

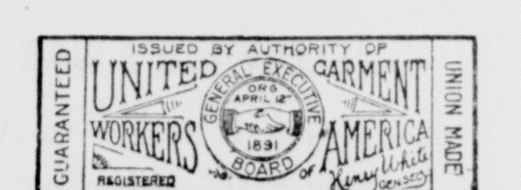

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

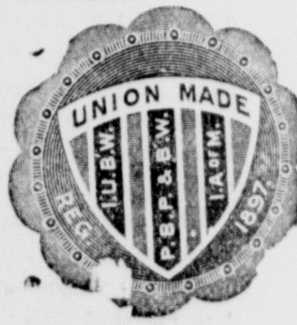

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

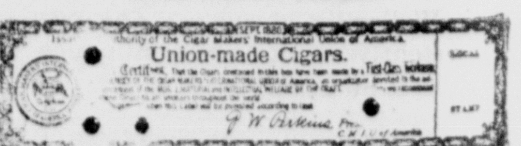

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this Label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar-box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

TOBACCO LABEL.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Baker's and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker Label:

NEW TREASURY NOTES.

Administration Will Soon Send
Out the Issue of 1899.

CURRENCY TO BE SIMPLIFIED

Greenbacks, Silver Certificates and Treasury Notes of Each Denomination to Have the Same General Appearance—Designs Proposed For Some of the Denominations.

An entire series of new notes is to be issued by the treasury department at Washington and called the issue of 1899. The new notes will replace the old ones of the denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $50, $100 and $500. While it has become customary for every administration to leave its imprint on the currency of the nation by making a new issue of notes, which custom is being adhered to by the present administration, it is intended in this case that the currency shall be greatly simplified by the issue of 1899, says the New York Sun.

Prior to this year each one of the three kinds of notes, legal tenders or greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury or coin notes, had a separate plate and design for each denomination. As a result for the denominations from $1 to $500 there were eight different notes for the greenbacks, eight for the silver certificates and eight for the treasury notes.

It is now proposed to simplify the currency by having but eight designs, one for each denomination, and differentiating between the silver certificate and the greenback, or between the green back and the treasury note, by the printing on the notes. All that the public is at present interested in is the denomination of the note. It wants to be sure that a note purporting to be a $5 note is really a $5 note and not one raised from a $1 note. With 24 different notes, or three for each denomination, the average man finds it very hard to remember the general appearance of a note of any one denomination, and thus it is skillfully raising the figures on a note it can be passed successfully for a note of higher denomination, as most persons are unfamiliar with the character of the notes of any specific denomination. And when these 24 notes are multiplied by the different administrations it gives a bewildering variety.

Secretary Gage therefore hopes by replacing the present issue by a new one, with only eight different forms of notes instead of 24, that the currency will be simplified to that extent and the people protected to a further degree against counterfeiters. One dollar notes of the new issue are being printed, and plates for the new $2 notes are being prepared. Designs for the new fives were submitted to the department the other day by the bureau of engraving and printing. At the department such designs are carefully examined, not only from a standpoint of beauty, but also from that of utility.

The question of the beauty of the design is decided by Secretary Gage and as to the desirability of the design by the secret service officials. Experts in the secret service give their opinions as to whether the proposed design is or is not easy to counterfeit, and changes are often made on their recommendation. Two designs for the $5 silver certificates were before the department a few days ago. One bearing the head of Hamilton was rejected. The design which will be taken bears the head of Washington, which, however, will be replaced by another portrait in the finished design, as the head of Washington has appeared on $1 notes so long that it has become identified with that denomination. Its presence on the new fives would also be an aid to the counterfeiters in raising $1 notes to fives.

In the new issue the engraving contains more open work than in any of the old notes. It was argued that there was no reason for the government to adopt a distinctive paper for its money and then to cover it with engraving to such an extent as to hide the character of the paper. The designs for the new notes will therefore be prepared so as to leave open spaces at each end of the note where the lines of silk thread in the paper can be seen distinctly. While this is not an absolute precaution against counterfeiting, it helps very materially to protect the public, for, although counterfeiters will take the risk of manufacturing this paper, they can only make very small quantities at a time, and the paper manufacturers will have nothing to do with it, as having such paper in one's possession, even though perfectly plain, makes the possessor liable to a sentence of 15 years in the penitentiary.

Under the picture will be printed the character of the note, silver certificate, legal tender, etc. In each of the upper corners is a figure 5 and in each of the lower corners a smaller figure 5, each one being surrounded with lathe work. To the right of the center the treasury's scalloped seal will appear and to the left a large V. The character of the notes of the new issues is to be told from the color of the seal, of the number and of the figure, V, X, L, etc.

In order to render the character of the notes easily distinguishable, the numbers, the seal and the Roman numerals, V, X, L, etc., will be printed in a different color for each class of notes. For instance, the silver certificates will have the number and seal in red, the treasury notes in blue and the greenbacks in brown or black. The colors have not been fixed as yet. By this means bank cashiers will be able to separate the notes rapidly into greenbacks, silver certificates and treasury notes without looking at the wording of the notes.

FUTURE OYSTER FISHING.

Submarine Boats Will Make the Business More Accessible.

The submarine boat will revolutionize the oyster industry. When in Chesapeake bay cruising, the old Argonaut frequently settled down on oyster beds and, with the permission of the owners, procured all the oysters desired by reaching down through the sea door. The new Argonaut can employ this method of gathering oysters, rising to the surface when her diving room is full, or send out divers, who can place the oysters collected in buckets or receptacles, which those on the surface can haul up. When bays and rivers are frozen over and oystermen cannot ply their trade, the Argonaut can go under the ice, says Lippincott's Magazine. Fishing can also be carried on easily on the bottom with nets, for the fish have no fear of the object they evidently consider a whale and swim from every direction toward the glare of the electric lights shining through the ports.

Sponge fishing will engage the attention of the first successful submarine voyagers. Good sponges are becoming dearer, for the supply in shallow water is running short. The divers cannot go deeper than 25 feet, and the sponges are found in deep water. To this deep water the Argonaut will go and gathering the finest sponges put them on the market at a price no greater than that paid for the common varieties. She will also try pearl fishing, now conducted at an enormous expense of life, for by a strange freak of nature pearl oysters are generally found in localities where bad weather prevails and hurricanes and typhoons are frequent. These the Argonaut, under water, need not fear, and her divers, instead of gathering up the oysters by the single handful, can gather them by the bushel.

He Needed a Shave.

He had been out so late the night before that he did not know at what hour he had come home. When he awoke, he was curious to learn just how "rocky" he looked. He accordingly reached out for the silver backed hand mirror that lay on the table beside his bed.

Instead of the mirror he got hold of the silver backed hairbrush. Not recognizing his mistake, he took the brush up and gazed at the bristles for a moment. Then he felt of the silver back and then stared back at the bristles.

"Good heavens," he murmured at last, "but I need a shave!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

"That's not exactly the way of it. She sometimes forgets the man, but she always remembers the compliment."—Chicago Record.

WEALTH IN ITS TIMBER.

Lumbermen Attracted to the Philippine Archipelago.

SEVERAL MAY GO FROM THE WEST.

Prospect That American Capital Will Soon Be Employed In Developing the Timber Industry—Great Extent and Variety of Hard Woods In the Islands.

Many letters have been received in Manila from capitalists and lumbermen in the United States proving the interest taken in the timber wealth of the Philippines and showing that as soon as the insurrection is quelled and the new era begins in the islands the lumber industry will be among the first to be taken hold of, says the Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. Several lumbermen from the western states have already written their intentions of coming to the Philippines, but it can hardly be expected that the trade can be opened on a large scale until grants can be secured to timber lands and workmen secured, both of which the war prevents, as it does the peaceable possession of land not occupied by United States troops.

Some lumbermen from Oregon who have been in Manila investigating the conditions of the industry are skeptical as to whether it will ever take rank with the other great industries of the island, such as the production of sugar, hemp and tobacco. They say that the scarcity of reliable labor and the tremendous cost of getting the timber to market will be likely to shut off any profits. But other experts claim that these men have overlooked the fact that the situation will be radically different in every branch of industry after the United States has taken full possession in the Philippines.

There will be a greater incentive for people to labor, as they will be sure of their wages and secure in their possession and free from heavy tax burdens. There will also be an immigration of reliable labor from the States, Australia and Europe. The heavy tax laid by the Spaniards on timber when it was brought into market and which is still collected by the United States will be removed. The heavy tariffs on mill machinery which are still assessed at the Manila custom house will be taken off or lightened by the next congress, which will have the revision of the customs duties at Manila. Railroads are sure to be built on the more important islands and through the best lumber districts of Luzon and will greatly cheapen the cost of bringing the lumber to market. Besides this the various woods of the Philippines, which are but little known in the United States or Europe, are bound after their wonderful properties are known to become vastly popular.

But even without the markets of the States or Europe a splendid market for the timber grown in the islands, especially the hard woods, will be found in the orient, Japan, China and the English colonies in the far east being capable of consuming a tremendous quantity of the timber products of the Philippines. The trade is little developed.

The present price of the hard woods in assorted lots, as is the custom in Manila, is 90 cents per cubic foot. The average price before the war was 50 cents. Sometimes, when certain varieties especially needed did not come in rapidly enough, its value rose rapidly, and frequently in the past cedar needed for cigar boxes was quoted at $2 or $3 per cubic foot. The average price of cedar was 70 cents per cubic foot. The transportation of squared logs from southern provinces to Manila costs 20 cents a cubic foot. Concessions were given free by the Spanish government to cut lumber on the crown lands, but duty had to be paid and is still paid before exporting the lumber. This duty is 11 cents per 100 kilos squared lumber, 55 cents per cubic meter for cut boards and 40 cents per 1,000 for staves.

There seems to be no limit to either the variety or the quantity of valuable timber in the islands. There are hundreds of islands in the Philippines with thousands of miles of virgin forest suitable for every purpose to which timber has ever been put. There are over 50 varieties of hard wood, almost every species of which is practically unknown in the United States. Among the costly woods are sapan wood, ebony and mahogany. Charles Graham has a collection of 130 species of woods collected during the Spanish regime. Some of these are as light as cork and others so heavy they sink like iron in water.

A bola knife taken from an insurgent by an American soldier is made of a heavy black wood that seems as hard as steel. Molave, which gives logs up to 35 feet long by 24 inches square, is one of the most valuable of the hard woods. It is equally impervious to water, insects and climate. In fact, it is said to be practically everlasting and is unsurpassed for such purposes as railroad ties and shipbuilding, for piers and wharfs.

Batitan gives logs up to 40 feet and possesses the same qualities as teak, for which it would be an excellent substitute. Antipolo is another wood that defies the effects of water and climate and does not warp and is useful for vessels. Guiso is used for carriage shafts and wheels, ipil and mangachapay have the same good qualities as molave, except resistance to sea worms, and betis and araranga, that give logs up to 75 feet long, are especially used for wharfs and sea pilings, as they are proof against water and sea worms. Tindalo, supa and acle are strong, tenacious and durable, resist fire and take a high polish. They are used for house decorations and furniture. The principal trade has been in cedar, dinglas, batitanan, camagon, guio, narra, antipolo, molave, dungons, betis, malabonga, mangachapay, calantras, ipil, anagap, apiton and tindalo.

Erlanger's Hats Are In

DOLLAR TO THREE DOLLARS.

Which quotations are for men's hats--boys' cost less.

Too early to call it a "fall opening,"
But "fall exposition" is admissable.

Charming Clothing

For men and for boys this season. The double breasted sack with silk or with satin facing; the Strand cutaway frock, shorter below the waist line, and well rounded over the hips, for semi-dress; vests in several designs double breasted; trousers cut narrow, but not so extreme as to cause unfavorable comment; styles, patterns, etc., innumerable, according to quality, but warranted the best for the money or money back.

WE COULDN'T PERMIT OURSELVES TO BE UNDERSOLD.

$5.00 to $22.00

Childrens' junior Suits.....98^c up to $6.00

Childrens' Tuxedo suits, the coats being satin or silk faced.....$2 to $8.00

Boys' good school suits, in hundreds of patterns or plain weaves, $1.50 to $8

And the Tale Is But Briefly Told.

Perhaps Brevity Is Preferable to Exaggeration.

HANDSOME NECKWEAR. Every late conceit of Paris, London, New York and East Liverpool conception at Erlanger prices. That protects you.

ALL WELCOME---Inspection Solicited--NO URGING TO BUY.

Clearance of past season's leavings, still in progress. Profitable investments may be made for present or for future needs.
